Bodies of Victims of Murder Interred Without Autopsy Dr. E. I. Cronk Testifies.

Grins at Story of His Grilling When Detective Says He Answered Questions Satisfactorily.

The Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10.—Evidence was offered by the State in the Hall-Mills case today, mainly intended to show that the lies of Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were almost premeditated.

A physician who performed the autopsies testified that his examination was made two weeks after the burial of Mrs. Mills, and another physician said the only post-mortem wound on the slain woman's body resulted from an examination done when she was not about to be buried.

Dr. Randolph Hegeman, who performed the first autopsy, told of his examination of the body, which was followed with interest by the defendants, the always, and James Mills, and Charlotte Mills, sister of the slain child singer.

Hegeman was not able to say whether the tongue, larynx and upper portion of the windpipe, missing from Dr. Otto Schulze's post-mortem report last month, were present at his examination.

Permitted by the court to an opinion, he said he thought the organs were present.

Buried Without Autopsy.

Dr. E. I. Cronk said that the bodies were buried without an autopsy, the post-mortem examination of the fact that Mrs. Mills was not pregnant at the time of her death.

Justice Parker, presiding at the trial, announced this afternoon that the session of the trial would be adjourned tomorrow, Armistice Day. At opening of court, Special Prosecutor Simpson said the American Legion had protested against the trial and Justice Parker said the jury would be allowed to decide whether the trial should be continued.

Calling the protest to the attention of the court, Simpson asked that the jury be taken to the scene of the murder during the trial.

Justice Parker, who had been asked to take the jury to the scene of the murder, said he would not do so.

He said he would not do so because the jury had been taken to the scene of the murder, and he would not do so again.

MERGER OF HILL ROADS AND BURLINGTON UNDER WAY

Extension of Northwest Lines Into California Is Expected to Follow.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The New York Herald Tribune says the most important railroad merger in the western half of the United States, embracing the Hill roads, the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Burlington, whose combined capital is more than $1,500,000,000, is under way.

Arthur Curtiss James, director of the Great Northern, and the largest individual holder of railroad securities in the country, is director of the merger, which is being handled in the financial district. He was quoted as saying that the eventual extension of the Northwest lines into California was James J. Hill's dream and that the railroad builder's dreams generally came true.

James was quoted as saying such a merger is the most logical thing to do since it will leave the Northwest with two great transcontinental systems—the Consolidated Northern and the St. Paul.

The Northern Pacific and the Great Northern now control the Northwest through ownership of about 97 per cent of the latter's stock.

Fifty-Three Members at 10-Minute Session at Which House Managers Make Recommendation.

ACTION DEFERRED
TILL DECEMBER 13

No Obstacle Likely to Bar Abandonment of Case Against Federal Judge Who Has Resigned

By CHARLES G. ROSS.

Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The United States Senate, sitting as a high court of impeachment for the trial of Federal Judge George Washington English of East St. Louis, received today the recommendation of the House managers that the trial be discontinued because of the resignation of English, and by unanimous consent adjourned at the end of a 10-minute sitting to meet again as a court Dec. 13.

The adjournment was taken to give the managers an opportunity to consult with the House after the beginning of the regular legislative session of Congress on Dec. 6. The managers will repeat their recommendation to the House, putting it on the ground that the main end of the impeachment proceedings has been served by the retirement of English.

It is generally assumed that the House will place no obstacle in the way of the proposed discontinuance of the trial. The managers will come before the Senate again on Dec. 13, and the Senate undoubtedly will be guided by their report.

Shortest Session on Record.

Today's meeting of the Senate was a complete session and the shortest on record.

Like all the Senate proceedings in the English case, the session was marked by the utmost solemnity. The galleries were about half filled, and 53 Senators, an unexpectedly large number, were present. The session opened promptly at 12:30 o'clock, the hour fixed in the resolution under which the Senate adjourned last July.

After a prayer by the Chaplain, Vice President Dawes decided the purpose of the session was to be the hearing of impeachment charges against Judge English. He called on Sergeant-at-Arms Barry to open the court.

Barry intoned the ancient formula, "Hear ye, hear ye, hear ye," in English, who presided in the presence of the court.

Four of the nine managers of the House, announced by the sergeant-at-arms, entered at the main door of the chamber and marched down the center aisle to seats in front of the Vice President's rostrum. They were Representatives Michener of Michigan, chairman of the managers; Sumners of Texas, Tillman of Arkansas and Hersey of Maine. E. C. Krueger, of counsel for English, who presented the resignation at the White House and received the President's acceptance six days ago, took a seat on the other side of the aisle.

A Senate clerk started reading the minutes of the last session, which closed on May 5, but this formality was soon dispensed with at the suggestion of Majority Leader Curtis.

Copy of Resignation Filed.

According to the plan which had been agreed upon between the managers and the Senate leader, Representative Michener then presented a certified copy of the resignation of the Judge, with the President's acceptance. He stated that in consideration of the resignation, the managers had determined to recommend that the impeachment proceedings be dropped. They therefore requested, he went on, that the Senate adjourn so that they might present their recommendation to the House.

There was no objection. Curtis then submitted an order that the sergeant-at-arms be directed to notify witnesses that they need not appear for the trial till notified to do so. A second order proposed by Curtis fixed the next meeting of the court at 3 p. m., Dec. 13. Both orders were spread on the records with dissent.

This ended the business session so far as the trial was concerned. Senator Stewart of Iowa, who was elected to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Johnson, was sworn in and read the order of adjournment of the Senate.

The Senate adjourned at 12:40 o'clock on motion of Curtis, not to meet against till the beginning of the regular session.

Retired Banker and Clubman Succumbs in Kansas City at Age of 63.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 10.—Jere S. Lillis, 63 years old, retired banker and clubman, who in March, 1910, was bound and slashed by the late Jack P. Cudahy, son of Michael Cudahy, millionaire Chicago packer, died here today.

At the time of the attack Lillis was president of the Western Exchange Bank here. He was a bachelor. He moved in the same social circle as the Cudahys. Lillis and Cudahy were warm friends. Returning to the Cudahy home unexpectedly, the packer's son found his wife, Mrs. Edna C. Cudahy, with Lillis.

Cudahy's chauffeur bound Lillis with a clothes line. Then Cudahy slashed Lillis with a knife, inflicting wounds on his face, back, arms and legs. There was no prosecution.

Later the Cudahys moved to California, where Jack shot and killed himself in Los Angeles in April, 1921, following ill health and financial troubles.

Former Secretary of Interior and Oil Man Waive Reading of Indictment in Conspiracy Charge.

PRELIMINARY TO TRIAL ON NOV. 22

Prosecution Grew Out of the Leasing of Elk Hills Navy Oil Reserve to the Californian.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Albert B. Fall, Secretary of the Interior in President Harding's Cabinet, and Edward L. Doheny, wealthy California oil operator, pleaded not guilty in the District of Columbia Supreme Court today to a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Government in connection with the celebrated Elk Hills naval oil lease.

The two men were arraigned formally as a preliminary to their trial, which is set for Nov. 22. The proceedings required only a few minutes and the reading of the indictment was dispensed with.

Fall and Doheny entered the court with a large array of counsel and after the charge was read, they rose, pleaded and immediately left the court room.

The former Interior Secretary's appearance before Associate Justice Hoehling was his first in Washington since he declined to testify before the Senate investigating committee in the spring of 1924.

Although greatly changed, his physical condition seemed to be excellent and he chatted amiably with Doheny at the counsel table while waiting for court to convene. The great shock of hair which he wore during his senatorial and secretarial days had given way to a neat haircut. His once drooping eyelids had been clipped.

Doheny and Fall took little interest in the commotion about them before Justice Hoehling entered. More than 50 lawyers interested in the various cases against the two millionaires crowded the courtroom.

Fall, Pomerehne of the Government's special oil counsel.

Fall and Doheny were friends and prospectors in the Western hills in their young days.

Fall and Doheny faced the court after a battle extending over more than a year to have the indictments thrown out.

Bribery Charges Also Pending.

Besides the indictment pleaded to there is another in which Fall and Doheny and the oil man's son, Edward L. Doheny Jr. are charged with bribery in connection with the delivery of $100,000 by Doheny to Fall about the time the contracts between the Government and Doheny's companies were being negotiated. In voluntarily disclosing this transaction to the Senate committee, Doheny insisted that he had given his personal note as evidence of the debt.

Harry F. Sinclair, who obtained the lease to the Teapot Dome oil reserve in Washington, is named in the other two indictments. He is turned by the grand jury here. In one he and Fall are charged with conspiracy to defraud the Federal Government in connection with the Teapot Dome lease. In the other Sinclair is charged with contempt of court in refusing to answer certain questions before the Public Lands Committee as the long inquiry into the oil leases was drawing to a close.

In case of the conspiracy indictment Sinclair has asked the United States Supreme Court to review the action of the District Court of Appeals in dismissing his appeal. The Court held that the recent act of Congress prohibiting it from entertaining separate appeals on indictments in criminal cases must hold in this case.

Appeal in Sinclair Case.

The appeal in the contempt case also was dismissed by the Court of Appeals last Saturday, and counsel for Sinclair have announced that they also will ask the highest court to review that action.

Both of the civil suits brought by the Government for cancellation of the leases to Doheny and Sinclair are now before the United States Supreme Court.

In the Doheny case the Government won in both the District and Circuit Courts, and in the Sinclair case it lost in the lower court but the one in the Circuit Court won a decision written by Judge William S. Kenyon.

WOMAN HELD FOR $10,600 SHORTAGE IN HER ACCOUNTS

Miss Blanche Cole, Assistant Cashier of Ely & Walker Co., Accused of Embezzlement.

COMMON LAW BOND OF $3000 FURNISHED

Officials of Firm Present Evidence to Circuit Attorney in Case and Ask for Her Indictment.

Miss Blanche Cole, assistant cashier of Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co., furnished common-law bond of $3000 today before Judge Gayer, in Court of Criminal Correction, after officials of the company had presented evidence to the Circuit Attorney and asked that she be indicted for embezzlement of $10,600.

Miss Cole is about 30 years old, and resides with her parents at 2143A Cates avenue. She was employed by Ely & Walker for the last eight years, starting as a clerk. As assistant cashier, she had access to remittances received from customers in payment for merchandise, the remittances totaling as much as $70,000 daily.

Company officials say she has admitted that for the last 18 months she had been abstracting small sums, never more than $100 at a time, from the cash remittances. The shortage in her accounts was discovered in September, when a customer complained that he had been billed for a small amount for which he previously had remitted. An audit showed a shortage of $10,600, according to W. W. Larch, secretary of the company.

There was no immediate prosecution, as Miss Cole surrendered jewelry and clothing, which had cost $2500, and promised to make further restitution. She was unable to do so, so she had to company officials that she had spent the funds for "beautiful clothes and jewelry," and investigation disclosed that she had run up large bills at various shops.

Her purpose in giving bond today was to avoid detention in the event of arrest. Judge Gayer was informed that she intended to surrender at police headquarters this afternoon. The bond was given on condition that she would not make any charge but has been filed against her.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Wilson said Ely & Walker officials had presented evidence to him and asked that the matter be taken before the grand jury. Wilson has made no decision.

Miss Cole was under $2000 surety bond. The surety company is assisting the Ely & Walker Co. in the effort at prosecution.

ITALIAN POLICE SEIZE QUARTERS OF ANTI-FASCISTS

Buildings Will Be Occupied Until They Can Be Changed to "Useful Purposes of Habitation."

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 10.—Scarcely had the Chamber of Deputies approved the new security law than squads of police and soldiers swarmed down on occupied and closed the headquarters of all anti-Fascist parties and societies, which the law ordered dissolved.

The places will be occupied until they have been transformed to "useful purposes of habitation." Premier Mussolini was received by King Victor Emmanuel at the Villa Savona yesterday. They had a long cordial talk. Later the Premier took over the post of the Ministry of Interior.

The Chamber unseated a large number of Communists and other opposition members who had refused from participating in the sessions of parliament since the murder of the Socialist deputy, Matteotti, in 1924.

During the session of the Chamber Mussolini was accorded an ovation as he sat quietly, but with jaws set in a way of applause, mingled with cheering and fragments of Fascist songs, greeted him as he entered the hall. The demonstration continued until with an imperious gesture of his right arm, the Duce silenced it.

Under the new law attempts against the life of Mussolini or any member of the royal family will be punishable by death.

The death penalty law was carried by a vote of 285 to 8, while the resolution expelling the recalcitrant members was adopted 293 to 10. Mussolini consented to the death penalty only after insistent demands of the Fascists.

Article 6 of the security decree, providing that foreigners guilty of violating the provisions against anti-Fascist propaganda or of spreading false and prejudicial rumors about Italy in foreign countries should be equally punishable with Italians, was eliminated. The elimination was decided upon in view of possible international complications.

It was deemed sufficient to provide for the punishment of foreigners residing in Italy, particularly in the case of the Italian's affairs abroad in a false or prejudicial way.

Signor Rocco, who formulated the defense measure, succinctly explained it by the phrase, "The Fascist revolution being attacked by its enemies."

On a previous secret ballot the law was approved 215 to 6, the latter being former Premier Giolitti and his followers.

WARRANT FOR PAYROLL ROBBER

William Hurdwood, Shoe Worker, Admits Taking $800 From Woman.

William Hurdwood, 22 years old, a shoe worker of 2442 North Grand boulevard, has been charged in a warrant with the $800 payroll robbery of Mrs. Edward J. Frederick of 2842A Texas avenue and Lynch street Saturday.

He was arrested in the vicinity and in a written statement given the police asserted that a woman who is related to him and to Mrs. Frederick instigated the robbery and accompanied him to the scene. This woman, who was arrested for questioning, has been released, the police believing her denial of participation in the holdup. Mrs. Frederick was taking the payroll to her husband, a granitoid contractor.

Hall and Mrs. Mills Buried Hastily

"Until the following Monday or Tuesday."

"If you did not have these articles in your possession, you cannot be certain what was done with them in the way of handling them, how they were handled or what fingerprints might not have been made on them by persons touching them."

Simpson objected, contending that Totten was not a fingerprint expert. The defense was continuing its attack on the validity of the fingerprint evidence and the court ruled that the question should be answered. "No," replied Totten.

The calling card bearing the fingerprints identified as those of Willie Stevens was produced from the pocket of Inspector Underwood, a member of Simpson's staff.

"I understood your only means of identifying this card as one of those found at the place where the bodies lay is by fingerprints," asked Case, as he removed the card from its glass protection and showed it to the detective. "Yes."

Attorney Case also used Totten in an effort to give a blow to the State's contention that Mrs. Jane Gibson, star witness for the State, had ridden her mule, Jenny, to the Phillips farm the night of the slaying. Totten said the ground was "hard and dry" at the scene of the crime when he visited it two days after the murder. Edward Schwartz, one of the State's fingerprint experts, yesterday had testified that he saw a hoof-print on the ground when he visited the spot 44 days after the slaying.

Grilling Willie Stevens.

Totten told of "grilling" Willie Stevens. Senator Case was overruled when he asked: "After all the grilling through the various phases of the investigation the most damaging thing he said was 'do you think they suspect me?'"

He was also overruled when he asked about a "severe grilling one night."

Details of one examination of Willie were brought out by Simpson on re-direct examination. "You took Willie Stevens to the courthouse at New Brunswick for questioning," Simpson asked. "Yes," said Totten.

"What did he say?" "He didn't say much on the way down. After having been questioned and as we were coming from the courthouse he asked me, 'Do you think they suspect me?'" "Why do you ask that?" I said. Just then the photograph of Willie was put in his hand and he said, 'I didn't press the question.'"

Willie Stevens Grins.

At this Willie, who was listening intently, grinned.

"Willie made no objection to going to the courthouse," asked Case in cross-examination. "No," said Totten.

"He talked freely when in the prosecutor's office," "Yes," "He answered questions satisfactorily," "Yes," Horn Willie smiled again.

"He was also questioned at Somerset," "Yes," "How many times did you see Willie?" "Two or three."

"How long was he questioned at New Brunswick at the time when he asked if you thought they suspected him?" "About an hour and a half."

"And he was put through a grilling during the investigation?" "Undoubtedly."

Exhibit Battered About.

Totten said a handkerchief and a powder puff were found in the pocket of a scarf that was wrapped about Mrs. Mills' body. The handkerchief is still among the State's evidence, but the powder puff has disappeared.

Case, in his cross-examination of the witness, stressed the fact that the eyeglasses, found in their proper position on the Rev. Mr. Hall's face, were in good condition, but that now they are broken. The defense attorney, by his questions, indicated that he was driving home this point to show that if the eyeglasses were handled in such a way as to be broken after they had been found intact, the calling card alleged to bear Willie Stevens' fingerprints likewise was handled much during the years after the double slaying.

Totten said there was a dental appointment card also among the articles taken from Hall's pockets, but it has disappeared.

Last week, when the State introduced the clothing worn by the minister and the choir singer, a black slouch hat belonging to Willie Stevens was taken from the box containing the other clothing, and there had been much speculation as to whether the State would contend that this hat was found at the scene of the crime.

More Autopsy Evidence.

In the opinion of Dr. Rudolph Hegeman, who performed the autopsy after the body of Mrs. Mills was exhumed in 1932, the larynx and the top of the windpipe were in the body at that time.

"There was no evidence around the mouth of violence and no gaping hole at the bottom of the cut in the neck to indicate they had been removed," he testified on cross-examination.

The wound was made by a very sharp knife, he said.

During his examination by Simpson, Hegeman had declined to swear that the tongue, larynx and upper part of the windpipe had not been removed.

"Can you swear that they had not been removed?" Simpson asked.

"No," was Hegeman's answer. "I did not open the mouth. I don't know what was in it. I put back the head but I can't recall the upper part of the windpipe was there or not."

Dr. Hegeman said he found and removed two bullets from the skull of Mrs. Mills. The head was almost severed and to him it appeared as if there had been two cuts, one from each side.

Loud Cries on Mutilation.

On cross-examination, over Simpson's protest, he was allowed to testify that he thought he would have observed it, if the tongue, larynx and upper part of the windpipe, had been removed.

Senator Case, in arguing that Hegeman be allowed to state his opinion revealed the defense theory as to the testimony of Dr. Schultz, who yesterday testified that the tongue and other contents of the throat were missing, when he performed an autopsy last month.

"These parts of the throat could have been separated from the body as a result of the deep cut," said Case, "and therefore, would not have received the benefit of the embalming fluid."

Abdominal Cut Explained.

Dr. E. I. Cronk, who was health officer of New Brunswick at the time of the double slaying, testified he was called to the undertaker's establishment, three days after the slaying, to identify the bodies of the couple and while there, reopened the abdominal incision which had been made by the Somerset County physician in the post-mortem examination of Mrs. Mills.

The incision, he said, had been made to determine whether the woman was pregnant.

"Was she?" asked Simpson. "No," answered the witness. He also said nothing was missing from the abdominal part of the body.

Dr. Cronk said he found "concealed evidence in the head of Mrs. Mills."

"What was it?" asked Simpson. "I found three bullet wounds, and there were no points of exit," said the witness. "I knew there was evidence inside the head."

Simpson then brought out what he meant by "evidence," the three bullets which must have been in the head. Dr. Cronk asked he reported this to Joseph Stricker, now dead, and who was prosecutor of Middlesex County at the time of the slaying. This report, the witness said, was made on Monday morning, four days after the crime, and early in the day on which Mrs. Mills was buried, without an autopsy having been performed. Dr. Cronk said the abdominal incision was the only post-mortem wound on the woman's body. The witness said he assisted at the autopsy made afterward when the bodies had been exhumed.

"Did you look to see if Mrs. Mills' tongue had been cut out?" asked Simpson. "I did not," replied the witness.

Dr. Hegeman, recalled to read notes which he had dictated at the autopsy he performed on the body of Hall Oct. 5, 1932, testified he found eleven abrasions and one puncture in addition to a bullet wound in the head.

Most of the abrasions were small and on the left hand and arm. The puncture was on the right leg below the knee and might have been inflicted by a sharp twig, he testified.

The abrasions might have been caused by some rough surface having come in contact with the skin," he said.

Mrs. Hall was, apparently, unmoved by this discussion.

Dr. Cronk, who was on the stand at the noon recess, was cross-examined when court opened.

He testified that there was no evidence that the larynx was missing from the throat of Mrs. Mills.

Effort to Prove Struggle.

Dr. Hegeman said there were small indentations on the back of both of Mrs. Mills' arms when the autopsy was performed on her body Sept. 29, 15 days after she was killed, but he was not certain that they were made before death. The State has been bringing out detailed descriptions of the wounds on both the bodies of the minister and the choir singer in an attempt to show that a struggle preceded the slaying.

Testimony that Hall had employed him to perform a kidney operation on Mrs. Mills was given by Dr. Arthur L. Smith, a New Brunswick physician. The minister, Dr. Smith said, arranged to have Mrs. Mills placed in a hospital, and agreed to pay the doctor $14 a month for 12 months, to treat Mrs. Mills' illness. The witness said he began attending her Jan. 19, 1932, about eight months before the slaying.

ing. Hall visited Mrs. Mills frequently at the hospital, Dr. Smith said, but was never accompanied by Mrs. Hall, although he later testified that Mrs. Hall called on him.

Says Dr. Hall Failed to Pay.

The minister paid him $10 of the $200 which he promised to pay. Dr. Smith testified he brought information from the news which indicated that the funds were rather low at the time. The witness said Hall had had a church fund from which physician's fee would be paid.

The State made another attempt to have Mrs. Hall called as evidence the bullets which contents caused the deaths of Mrs. Mills. Defense attorneys blocked their appearance after the State had said he was not there they were the bullets moved from the victim's body.

WOODEN COFFIN AND DAGGER FOR JAPAN'S PREMIER

Three Men Who Drove Residence of Official Left Them on Doorstep Are Arrested.

By FRANCIS MISSELWITZ, A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TOKIO, Nov. 10.—Three men last night drove to the residence of Premier Rikido Kakutani, demanded an interview with the Premier, and placed a wooden coffin, containing a dagger, on his doorstep.

The men were arrested without having seen the Premier. The dagger found in the coffin was placed in a white scabbard, mounted upon a small stand, and the fashion of the weapons used in the Samurai in hakariki, or honorable side, under the tradition of old Japan.

The episode of the coffin was the latest of a series of unprecedented occurrences, growing out of the efforts of a vigorous opposition to force the Premier to resign.

During the day, charges of bribery against Premier Kakutani were published in the newspapers. The charge of bribery was based on a real estate deal in Osaka. Officials investigating Osaka matter recently questioned Premier Kakutani, and he is accused of having made false statements to them.

The Premier, on learning of the charges filed in court, yesterday made a statement to the press, denying the charges categorically. He went on to say that he was not a busy man, and was at his ministerial duties.

The growing importance of the smoke problem in St. Louis has prompted the Committee on Smoke Abatement of the St. Louis Medical Society to demand the united efforts of citizens to rid the city of "our worst civic and personal nuisance."

CENSORSHIP PLACED ON QUEEN'S UTTERANCES

Rumanian Premier's Representative Says He Is Now Her Official Spokesman.

By the Associated Press. DENVER, Colo., Nov. 10.—Queen Marie is not disturbed by the thought that virtual censorship has been placed on her communications with newspaper men aboard her train, as announced last night by Prof. Nicholas Petresco, who is representing the Rumanian Prime Minister on the tour.

Petresco's chief concern is to guard against utterances which might have disturbing political significance at home, but Marie has undiminished confidence in her own ability as a diplomat and politician to handle delicate situations.

MAYOR OF HERRIN FAR FROM FRIENDS, NEAR HIS ENEMIES

Marshall McCormack, Reformed Kluxer, Can Depend Only on Birger Gang, 22 Miles Away.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HERRIN, Ill., Nov. 10.—One of the most unenviable positions in the Williamson County blood feud, which is rushing to a breaking point with all the certainty of a well-written drama, is that of Marshall McCormack, once a Ku Klux Klan raider under the banner of the late S. Glenn Young, and now Mayor of Herrin.

Displeased by the former Klan gunmen, who are still numerically strong, and hated by the Shelton gang, to whom he has frequently trumpeted his defiance, McCormack has managed to retain only the support of the gang and agents of Sheriff Birger, who still control the east half of the county from his picturesque fastness at Shady Rest.

His foes nearer than friends, of the three influences, the support of the Birger crowd is probably the least valuable. The Birger men, for example, shall decide to do away with McCormack, they could leap upon him after a trip of a few blocks. Should the Shelton crowd decide that his career should be ended, they might rush down from St. Louis or East St. Louis, take on reinforcements from the west side of the county and rush into Herrin before Birger could know they were in the county.

H. M. BIXBY ELECTED BY COMMERCE CHAMBER

New President Is Banker and Head of Several Other Organizations.

Harold M. Bixby was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce today, succeeding Carl F. G. Meyer. Bixby, who is 34 years old, is a banker, aviator, director of educational and charitable institutions, and a few other things. He is a busy man who will be still busier from today on.

But Bixby likes work. In fact, he uses an airplane to skip from city to city to save the hours that otherwise would be wasted on a train. Were it not for his fondness for saving time, he could not do so much work in each 24 hours.

Thirteen years ago he was graduated from Amherst College. As the son of William K. Bixby, capitalist and art connoisseur, it was hardly necessary for him to start his business career on the bottom rung. Nevertheless, instead of accepting a position, he took a "job" as clerk in the National Bank of Commerce, his rise to his present position as vice president of the State National Bank was rapid, but his associates give him full credit.

HEIRS' CONTRACT AS TO M'MILLAN INCOME UPHELD

Judge Ittner Rules That Agreement Between Mil-lionaire's Widow and Son Is Binding.

Circuit Judge Ittner today issued a decree upholding the validity of a contract by which the widow and son of William McMillan, former chairman of the board of the American Car & Foundry Co., agreed that the survivor would pay to the estate of the other one-fourth of the income each was entitled to from the trust estate created by William McMillan.

Mrs. McMillan died in 1915 and her son, Sir W. Northrup McMillan, died in March, 1925. Under the agreement he had paid about $400,000 to the estate of his mother, but five years ago he attempted to cancel the contract, contending that Mrs. McMillan's estate had increased sufficiently to take care of all bequests provided for in her will.

So W. K. Bixby, as trustee of the William McMillan estate, filed a suit to construe the contract.

$400,000 Now in Escrow.

Pending adjudication subsequent payments due were placed in an escrow fund, which has now grown to about $400,000, including interest. By Judge Ittner's decision this fund will be released to Mrs. McMillan's estate for the benefit of the legatees named in her will.

If the agreement had been declared void, Lady Lucy McMillan, widow of Sir W. Northrup McMillan, who for years lived in British East Africa, would have been entitled to the escrow fund.

Counsel for the son's estate contended that the contract was void because it authorized the widow and son to anticipate their income by making a gift from the trust property of William McMillan, which was prohibited by his will. However, counsel for the Mrs. William McMillan estate pointed out that by the contract neither heir actually agreed to yield possession of any part of the income until it was in their hands and it had become their money.

By the death of the son the estate of William McMillan, valued at $5,000,000, passed to his collateral heirs under the terms of his will. It was shown the income from the trust estate was about $400,000 a year.

$25,000 Fee to Law Firm.

In handing down the decree, Judge Ittner allowed a fee of $25,000 to the law firm of Taylor, Charnoff & Wilson on testimony offered by former Circuit Judge Daniel G. Taylor of that firm that a great amount of work was performed in the case and the parties interested agreed the fee charged was a reasonable amount. The law firm of Bryan, Williams & Cave was allowed a fee of $2500 for service to the trustees. Frederick W. Lehman appeared as attorney for Lady McMillan.

PASSES UP CHANCE OF 20 YEARS AND GETS LIFE TERM

Barber, Who Killed Wife, Regulates Confession at Trial for Second-Degree Murder.

Frederick Ebbe, 40-year-old barber, who stabbed his wife to death May 28 in a quarrel in their room at 1622 Mississippi avenue, today was found guilty of second-degree murder by a Circuit Court jury, which fixed his punishment at life imprisonment.

Ebbe, through his attorney, previously had offered to plead guilty and take a 10-year sentence, but Judge Ossing, before whom he was later tried, said that he would get at least 20 years if he pleaded guilty. So he elected to take his chances at trial. The jury, however, deliberated only 40 minutes before giving him life.

Following his arrest, Ebbe had signed a confession admitting the killing. Yesterday on the stand he repudiated it, saying he did not recall making it and pleading that after the death of his wife he was too overwrought to know what he was doing.

ST. CLAIR COUNTY FARMERS AT 33D ANNUAL MEETING

The thirty-third annual St. Clair County Farmers' Institute and Domestic Science Department meeting opened yesterday at O'Fallon, and will continue through tomorrow. Farm, garden and culinary products are displayed. A hog-raising contest will be a feature tomorrow afternoon.

Armistice day will be especially observed with a parade of school children, who have entered floats in the prize contest, and a patriotic program in the community hall.

Agriculturists from the University of Illinois and Illinois State Normal University are on the daily programs for lectures. Musical numbers are features of all sessions.

Man Hurt in Elevator Shaft.
Arthur Howard, 23 years old, 2243 Russell avenue, suffered injuries today when he stepped into an elevator shaft and fell 22 feet in a building under construction at 21st Washington avenue. He is sustained by an electrical concern and was sent to deliver material to the building.

Churchmen Hear St. Louis Man.

By the Associated Press.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 10.—The recruiting and training of an evangelistic ministry formed the central theme of discussion at today's sessions of the National Evangelistic Association of the Churches of Christ, meeting here in advance of the international convention of disciples of Christ, Jesse M. Bader of St. Louis, general secretary of the association, in a keynote address at the opening session of the conference last night, emphasized the need of evangelism in the United States and aggressiveness on the part of the church. Prohibition law enforcement was urged by Bader as a task to which the church should awaken.

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup
Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.
Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.
This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.
A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.
Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable gualacol, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.
To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WANTS VALUE OF UTILITIES BASED ON INVESTMENT

Dr. John Bauer Tells National Municipal League Step Would Aid in Public Regulation of Rates.

Regulation of public utilities has foundered upon the rock of valuation in the opinion of Dr. John Bauer of New York, public utility consultant, who spoke today at the second meeting of the National Municipal League in convention in Hotel Statler.
He explained that rates, the chief concern of the public, are based upon valuation, and that legislatures yet have failed to specify the elements of valuation to the satisfaction of the courts. Consequently virtually all valuations of public utilities have been unsatisfactory to the public and have yielded to the insistence of the owners of utilities for increasing consideration of reproduction cost as an element. This has resulted in greatly increased valuations upon which the public is required to pay a "fair return."
Dr. Bauer advocated valuation upon the basis of actual investment. Utilities would be entitled to earn only upon the exact sums they had placed in the service of the public. If this simple rule were adopted, Dr. Bauer said, commissions would be free to attend to constructive measures for the betterment of public service instead of having its time, as now, entirely consumed with lengthy inconclusive hearings upon valuations.

Parishes City Manager.
Prof. Leonard D. White of Chicago University declared, at the luncheon session, that the city manager plan of municipal government had shown merit in eliminating politics from city business, better protecting the expenditure of public funds, and in improving technical service and operation of utilities.
The city manager, he said, has solved the problems of technical operation except as they have been unable to protect their work from the interference of boards of aldermen. Yet, in his opinion, city managers are providing on the whole the best type of municipal government to be found in the United States. "In city after city," he declared, "city managers have made striking records for economical and efficient administration, cutting down expenses, eliminating superfluous employees and giving better service."

Efficiency Rises From Teachers.
Public education, the target of so many critical darts, can be materially bettered, in the opinion of Dr. A. Ross Hill, former president of Missouri University, by restoring the teacher to his former salaried and social status.
"After all," he said yesterday, "efficiency in education rises from great teachers, not fine buildings."

He was discussing whether present costs of education were excessive. He thought not and declared that though the expenditures upon public education multiplied two and one-half times between 1910 and 1920, the public still spent twice as much for tobacco each year as upon education and 17 times as much for general luxuries.
However, he thought that the standing of teachers could be elevated greatly and their general proficiency increased through sharp salary advances without adding further to the cost of public schooling. He suggested that money could be saved by building less costly buildings, cutting the number of courses of study, reducing equipment and being contented with smaller athletic stadiums.

Refers to Vocational Training.
In this connection he declared that one city in the Southwest had spent more money each year since the war for school buildings than had Missouri University in any decade.
He also referred to vocational training in high schools as "half-baked" and declared that recently he had encountered a high school course of study providing for two years' instruction in shorthand and two years in typewriting. "The best stenographer I ever had," he declared, "was a college graduate who had 12 shorthand and typewriting lessons."
"Private business colleges turn out stenographers in six weeks and yet we have high schools wasting as much as two years in such instruction."

Hill also thought that the educational system might be reorganized to reduce the 14 years now regarded as necessary for a student to complete public schools and college to 12. He referred to the fact that European schools commonly devote 12 years to the same accomplishment and may be considered to turn out a better-educated student in the end.

Police Board Seeks Recruits.
The Police Board has made a written request, addressed to all policemen, asking them to assist in obtaining sufficient applications to the Police Department to enable the board to fill all vacancies immediately. The board requests police to get persons they consider qualified to file applications. At present the list of applicants is small.

meeting of the local was called to settle a grievance. Charges had been preferred against the president of the local at the last meeting and the session was to settle the difference.

SHOWING OF WAX MODEL OF MRS. MILLS' HEAD SUGGESTS MEDIEVAL TRIAL BY ORDEAL

By DOROTHY DIX.
(Copyright, 1926.)
SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 10.—The morbid murder trial fans who had stood for two hours in the pelting rain of a dreary November day, waiting to get into the courtroom at the Hall-Mills trial, and then had endured hours of grinding boredom listening to the experts and the lawyers wrangling over the fingerprints on the card found at Dr. Hall's feet, got their compensation thrill when Senator Simpson, late in the afternoon, introduced as evidence a wax model, showing the head and throat of Mrs. Mills.

Ostensibly, of course, it was to visualize to the jurors just how she received the wounds that killed her, but psychologically it was tremendously more significant than that. You could not look at it without thinking of the medieval trial by ordeal when those accused of murder were forced to look upon the corpse, and it was superstitiously believed that their demeanor under this test would prove their guilt or innocence.

Prisoners Calm Through It All.
Assuredly, Senator Simpson is too shrewd a man to think that Mrs. Hall and her brothers would be influenced by any such childish hocus-focus and as a matter of fact, they seemed to regard the exhibit with as calm and dispassionate curiosity as any one else in the room. They sat side by side as they always do, dignified, utterly quiet, masters of themselves and their nerves. I have never seen any people who figured so little. Nearly all of us shift continually in our seats, we twiddle with pencils, we tear up bits of paper, we move our hands almost continually. But they sit hour after hour, almost as immobile as statues, their hands quiet in their laps, their faces still and composed, with hardly a change of expression flitting across them.

And so they viewed the ghastly wax figure with no outward show of emotion whatever. It was only when Dr. Schultze, the coroner's physician from New York, who had made the autopsy and who was explaining the range of the bullets, showed where, indicating the spot on the head with his pencil, the bullets entered, that Mrs. Hall, and Mrs. Hall turned her head away and looked down at the floor for a few minutes, as if she were hiding the tears in her eyes and had seen all that she could bear to look upon.

A Calm Recital of Horror.
It was in truth a gruesome enough exhibit. Speaking very slowly and clearly and impressively, that somehow made what he had to say oddly dramatic, Dr. Schultze indicated where the three bullets had been fired into Mrs. Mills' skull within a range of four inches. And would have snuffed out the life of that little 90-pound woman.

Then, running his pencil around the throat, as if it were the finger of fate, Dr. Schultze told how the head had been almost severed from the body by one ferocious slash of a sharp knife, and how the tongue and the larynx and the windpipe had been cut out.

It but adds another turning in the dark maze of plot and counter plot in this most mysterious murder story, whose solution may be as far away at the end of this trial as it was at the beginning.

Never was there a case that had so many clues that ran into blind alleys in so short a time. Mrs. Hall, for instance, is accused of having committed the crime, and yet, aside from the improbability of a woman of fine family and high social connection, a dignified self-controlled woman who has lived a blameless life for 50-odd years suddenly turning into a murderer, it is a physical impossibility for a woman of ordinary strength to have slit the throat and cut out the tongue and mutilated another woman as was done to Mrs. Mills.

Some Puzzling Points.
Also, Mrs. Hall has been charged with having assisted at the murder of her husband and his affinity at 10 o'clock and at 2 o'clock to have been seen still weeping over them. The most hardened criminal in the world could not have borne to spend those ghastly hours with his victims. Nor would any murderer linger so long at the scene of his crime where he might at any moment be detected.

Likewise, Mrs. Hall is accused of having strewn the love letters exchanged by Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills about their bodies, yet the greatest fool in the world would know that would be to point suspicion directly at her and Mrs. Hall is a highly intelligent woman.

And Mrs. Hall is accused of knowing of her husband's murder and yet, going at 8 o'clock on the morning after, she did not return home, to the husband of the woman he had gone away with, and to have told him that they were both dead, which would have been equivalent to publicly announcing her own guilt.

And so it goes, mystery upon mystery, contradiction after contradiction, until it makes the plots of all the mystery story writers from Poe and Gaboriau to Oppenheim and Anna Katherine Green, seem as easy to solve as a cross-word puzzle.

No Touch of Tenderness.
And strangest thing, perhaps, in all this strange story is that there is no element of tenderness in it, no pathos. Horror there is in plenty, but there is no love, no tears, no breaking hearts. Hardly a trace of any human emotion. Not even a desire for revenge.

The police and detectives who cross-questioned Mrs. Hall the day the bodies were found were amazed that she did not yearn to mete out a stern punishment to whoever had murdered her husband—that she did not demand an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth and a life for a life. Assuredly, the Mills family feels the same way. Its members are utterly apathetic and only want the dreadful business ended, and to be left in peace.

Mrs. Mills' husband and daughter and sister were in court but they were unmoved when her blood-stained clothes were shown and they looked upon the ghastly model of her head and neck. What ever she was in their lives is ended and they do not make the pretense of mourning one who was a faithless wife and a recalcitrant mother and who brought them nothing but sorrow and shame. And the same thing may be said of Mr. Hall.

But it must be said, to lie in a grave where no one ever comes to weep.

FORGETFUL JUROR FINED $11

Call for Service Slipped His Mind, He Tells Court.
It cost James T. Cummins, 5045 Maple avenue, $11.50 for forgetting he had been summoned for jury service this week in Circuit Judge Franklin Miller's Court. When he did not appear, the judge sent a Deputy Sheriff after him and he made the excuse that jury service had slipped his mind. George Warner, 2353 Dodder street, a juror for the same court, also failed to appear, and when search was made he was found sitting in the courtroom of Judge Calvin Miller, in the Court of Criminal Correction. He was brought to the courthouse and explained he had gotten the two Millers confused, having misread his jury summons. He was let off with the costs of the Sheriff's attachment, $1.50.

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This does not mean to use harsh chemicals, but to get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

TORNADO WRECKS SCHOOL HOUSE, 11 CHILDREN KILLED

Death Toll of 15 and 40
Persons Hurt in Storm That Sweeps Portion of Southern Maryland.

By the Associated Press.

LA PLATA, Md., Nov. 10.—This little town or 500 souls today took up again the usually placid threads of its existence which were sheared suddenly yesterday afternoon by a tornado that wreaked havoc and destruction along a path at times 500 yards wide through a portion of Southern Maryland, killing 15 and injuring two scores, mostly school children, here, and severely injuring four more at Cedarville, 24 miles north-east of here.

Sweeping up from out of the Potomac, the disturbance swooped and twisted intermittently but concentrated its fury upon the schoolhouse here, where 61 pupils, teachers and attendants were gathered. Eleven of the children were killed and most of the others injured when the wooden walls of the building were seized and flung them flat.

At least a dozen other farmhouses and barns in the path were leveled to the earth, and the damage was estimated at thousands of dollars. The loss of life was small in comparison to the strength and power of the disturbance, because it passed through a sparsely settled region. The schoolhouse was the only place in the region where any appreciable number of persons was gathered.

Alarm Given by Boy.

John Marshall Burr, a hysterical 11-year-old figure, with blood streaming from his wounds, ran from the school house, resounding with the screams of wounded and imprisoned, to the home of the Rev. W. S. Helgham, Episcopal rector.

"Please telephone everybody," he sobbed in fear and pain, "the whole school house has blown away."

Almost all the population of the town followed the boy to the top of the knoll where the school had stood. But stood no longer. Its contents human and inanimate, were strewn over a radius of more than a quarter of a mile.

Some of the children had been blown at least 750 feet. Other bodies were impaled against some trees in mute evidence of the storm's devastation.

There had been, according to Miss Ethel Graves, 22-year-old teacher of the elementary class which consisted of 25 of the younger children, no warning and no time to anticipate or avoid the shock. Cut and bruised about the eyes, nose and head, she refused medical attention until she knew that everything possible had been done for her charges.

Experience of Teacher.

"It was just a few minutes before 3 o'clock," she said, "that I heard a rumbling noise and the wind seemed to increase tremendously. I was getting ready to take the children to some safer place when the glass from all the windows blew out."

"The frightened children were grouping themselves about me when it seemed suddenly as though they and everything in the room about me had been jerked up by some unseen hooks."

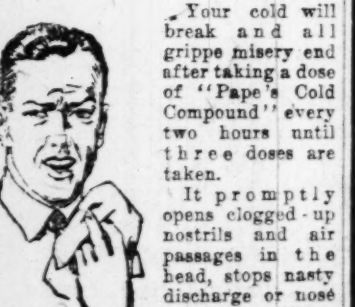

"Then we all were flying in the air. It seemed as though some of the children and parts of the building passed me several times. I lost consciousness and I do not know how much later it was when I recovered. I saw Wilson Bowling and asked him to take the baby that was lying across my body. When he picked up the poor child, she was dead. Others about me were dead, some others were badly injured, and many of them had their clothes torn off their bodies."

TOTAL VOTE IN CITY
180,399, OR 62.5 PCT.

Two Socialist Parties Poll the Least Since Women Have Had Ballot.

The total vote cast in St. Louis for the long-term United States senatorship, in the election of Nov.
2, was 180,399, or 62.5 per cent of the registration, which was 276, 345. The official compilation was completed by the Election Board yesterday afternoon.

The official count did not alter the relative showing of the unofficial figures, by which Harry B.
Hawes (Dem.) carried the city for the short term senatorship and Williams (Rep.) carried it for the long term.

A probable explanation of this result is found in the fact that the three minor parties, Socialist, Socialist-Labor and Prohibition, had candidates for the long-term senatorship only, and not for the short term. It appears that most of those voting for the minor long-term candidates voted for one of the major candidates for the short term, more of them voting for Hawes than for Williams.

The official count for the long term is: Williams, 90,998; Hawes, 90,187. The total of short-term votes is 529 greater than the total of Williams and Hawes for the long term, indicating that some of the Hawes and Williams short-term votes went to minor candidates for the long term.

The total vote of the two Socialist parties, 524, is the smallest shown here in a fall election since women have had the ballot. In 1920 the two Socialist parties polled a vote of 11,132 here, in 1922, 3082, and in 1924, 8894.

house, to find Mrs. Grimes under her hips. Her dress was in flame.

two of the three children also were Grocer Shoots at Burglar.

Awakened by a noise in his grocery store at 1925 p. m. yesterday, Ben Tinsberg, who resides at Franklin, investigated and a burglar ransacking the store. The burglar ran out a rear door as Tinsberg entered the front. The proprietor fired six shots, but the burglar escaped. Several cartons of cigarettes and $5 had been stolen. Entrance had been gained through a rear window. A boy's overcoat was found beneath the window.

No brush can reach where protection is most needed

IN ALMOST any drug store you will find 20, 30, even 40 different kinds of tooth paste. Many people buy them . . . changing from one to another. They seem disappointed. They brush their teeth regularly . . . yet decay still occurs, gum troubles still develop. Why? Because no brushing alone reaches where protection is most needed.

This is the danger. On your teeth there are pits, and at The Danger Line (where teeth and gums meet) there are crevices. In these food collects—ferments, and acids are formed which cause tooth decay and dangerous gum infections such as Pyorrhea.

Now, no tooth-brush can reach into all these pits and crevices. So you must depend on your dentifrice to give you the protection you need. It follows that a good dentifrice should contain a safe, effective antacid. That is why Squibb's Dental Cream is made with more than 50 per cent of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, long recognized as one of the best means of neutralizing acids. Every time you use Squibb's, the Milk of Magnesia is forced into every pit and crevice. There it neutralizes the acids. Particles of it stay lodged in the mouth, giving protection for a long time afterwards. You can buy Squibb's Dental Cream at all druggists—only 40c a large tube.

REAL ESTATE MAN WHO FORFEITED BOND ARRESTED

John M. Skala, Charged with Operating Confidence Game, In Jail at Ottawa, Ill.

John M. Skala, real estate dealer, whose $2000 bond was forfeited at Belleville Jan. 29, last, when he failed to answer to a charge of working a confidence game, is under arrest at Ottawa, Ill., and will be returned to Belleville for trial. His partner, Mrs. Barbara Matta, who forfeited a $2000 bond at the same time, still is missing. The bonds were signed by Finis P. Ernst of East St. Louis.

Prior to being indicted by the St. Clair County Grand Jury, Skala and Mrs. Matta conducted the United States Realty & Security Co., 712 Buder Building, St. Louis, and sold lots in Alta Vista, an East St. Louis subdivision. It was charged against Skala and Mrs. Matta that they sold lots on false representations that Henry Ford was to build a $28,000,000 glass factory there, and that let buyers were promised jobs which never materialized.

TWO EX-DRY AGENTS CONVICTED

Found Guilty With Roadhouse Owner of Conspiracy.
By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Two former prohibition agents and a former roadhouse proprietor have been found guilty of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in Federal Court here. The convictions are an aftermath of the seizure of a truck load of beer consigned to Frank Hitchcock, proprietor of the Burham Inn, by the police. When two policemen informed the prohibition agents, Victor Burgner and Frank Hassett, that the beer would be turned over to the Federal authorities, the agents conspired with the police to split the contents of the truck with Hitchcock. It was brought out during the trial. The charges against the two policemen were dismissed for want of sufficient evidence.

EDUCATION BOARD SIDETRACKS PLEA AGAINST SECRECY

Myrt A. Rollins' Resolution to Inform Public of Transactions Referred to Committee.

Two old specters rose last night to plague the Board of Education. On one, tearing away the curtain of secrecy that veils all actions of the Board's most important Committee on Instruction, the board hurriedly turned tail and ran. The proposal was referred to the Instruction Committee. The other, whether to equip school buildings with movable or fixed desks, was discussed to a point where a decision seemed imminent, then the board postponed action again for the nth time in several months.

Myrt A. Rollins, who in recent meetings has been voting "no" on all routine matters as a protest against secret committee meetings, seized upon the formal appointment of a new Committee on Instruction by President Wagner to endeavor to throw open its doors to the public. "How," his attitude has been, "can the public be fairly acquainted with what is going on in the board if board members themselves are uninformed of the facts and arguments upon which committees make their decisions?"

Secret Sessions Rule Board.
Government of the public schools is almost wholly by committee. By rule of the board all committee meetings are executive. Decisions of the most vital character come up and are decided, in most cases, without the public being aware, even that they are pending.

The Committee on Instruction rules in most questions in which parents are interested. In that committee the board's educational policies are shaped. The committee meets eight days in advance of the regular open meeting of the board. Usually the majority of the board membership attends. They are accorded that privilege. If the committee is confronted with some decision of moment, full and often acrimonious discussion ensues, all board members participating. If they choose. Then before the committee acts, a poll of the sentiment of the board as a whole is taken and with this guidance the committee then votes.

This, in effect, is a secret caucus of the board. Nothing Explained in Public. When the date of the open, public meeting of the board arises, the committee's action, with none of the explanatory facts upon which the decision was made, is laid upon each member's desk in printed form. The chairman of the committee moves the adoption of the committee report. In most cases it is adopted without discussion. Rarely does the board reverse its committee action.

That portion of the public which attends board meetings often is not aware of the nature of the question being voted on. As in the case of the recent radical changes of district lines affecting the pupils attending Franklin School, the first intimation of what the board has contemplated and secretly decided to do comes in newspapers the next day. And reporters have great difficulty in learning any more than the bare facts.

Thus the public is woefully deprived of facts affecting the schools. Rollins attempted to break this rule last year. He mustered three of 12 votes in the board. He proposed at that time to throw open all committee meetings to the public.

Rollins' Modified Proposal.
He now has modified his proposal. In a resolution introduced and referred last night, he sought to release members from the pledge not to divulge the transactions of the committee. He suggested that the committee continue to meet behind closed doors with the public cooling its heels in the ant room, but would modify the rule to permit members to tell what transpired, except in matters affecting the purchase of school sites and investigations affecting the personal affairs or qualities of any member of the school staff.

He suggested further that the committee make some announcement to the press of its action. This would allow the public eight days in which to make known its attitude on questions that are to come before the board formally for decision. It is known that some members have altered their view since the last vote that the executive meetings of committees must be preserved. This, together with the less radical suggestions by Rollins, may bring a closer vote when the board is confronted by the necessity of decision.

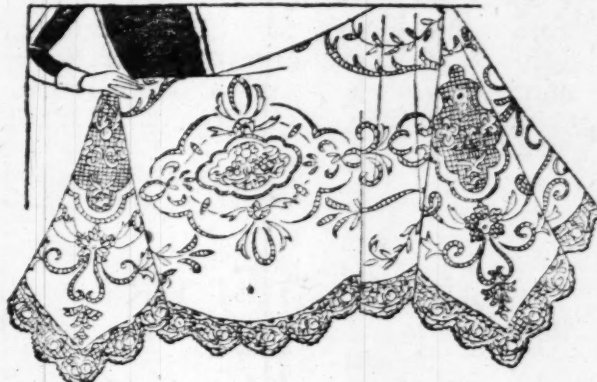

Superintendent Maddox last night lost his fight to have Louis R. Rader, demoted assistant superintendent, installed as principal of Ben Blewett junior high school. Maddox twice had recommended Rader to the instruction committee and the committee had declined to approve, once with Board support. Maddox last night named H. H. Meeker, principal of Harrison school, to the principalship and he was approved without discussion.

ON BOARD PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S SPECIAL TRAIN, Nov. 10.

A special train carried the President and Mrs. Coolidge toward the Middle West today for the address he is to deliver on Armistice day in Kansas City, Mo., at the dedication of the Liberty Memorial, erected in honor of World War veterans. Mr. Coolidge laid the corner stone of the memorial four years ago when he was Vice President.

Accompanied by Dwight F. Davis, Secretary of War, a St. Louisan, who also will speak at the dedication exercises, and Everett Ruess, secretary to the President, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge left Washington last night and are due at Kansas City tomorrow. Others on the train are Col. S. A. Chevre, military aid; Capt. Wilson Brown, naval aid, and Maj. James F. Coulpa, personal physician to the President.

First Western Trip This Year.

The trip is the first Mr. Coolidge has made into the West since he addressed the American Farm Bureau Federation convention in Chicago last December. He will remain in Kansas City seven hours and will return in time to be at his desk at the White House Saturday. No formal stops are scheduled going or coming.

Tomorrow afternoon, before going to the train for the return trip, Mr. Coolidge will go by automobile to Kansas City, Kan. It will be the President's first visit to Kansas.

The President's special arrived in Pittsburgh at 8:45 a. m. today and 19 minutes later continued its journey westward.

Returns Greetings.

Mr. Coolidge, minus overcoat, appeared with Mrs. Coolidge on the rear platform of their observation car in the Pittsburgh station to acknowledge the greetings of a handful of curious persons gathered in spite of cold wind and snow flurries. The special, which left Washington just before last midnight, encountered a cold wave entering the Allegheny Mountains.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge retired soon after the train left Washington and arose early today. After breakfast, Mr. Coolidge went back to his observation car and scanned the morning newspapers.

Chief Figures in Harding Regime Thinly Disguised in "Revelry," Novel by Samuel Hopkins Adams

Jess Smith Is in Book, and "President" of the Story "Is Excellent Poker Player.
Who Never Forgets a Friend."

By CHARLES G. ROSS.

Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Here they all are—all the members of the "Ohio gang" who came to Washington under the Harding regime—assembled between the covers of an amazingly audacious book known as "Revelry."

The book is by Samuel Hopkins Adams and is published by Boni & Liveright of New York. Oddly enough, it makes its public appearance on the same day—today—which sees Albert B. Fall, who figures in the novel under a thin disguise, arraigned in court here on criminal charges. Judging from the comment aroused by advance copies of the book, it will eclipse the sensation caused a few years ago by the daring "Mirrors of Washington."

At least 10 of the characters in "Revelry" will be identified by moderately well-informed readers as prominent actors in the tragic drama of the Harding administration. Jess Smith, Harry Daugherty's handy man, who killed himself on the eve of the execution of the Brookhart-Wheeler committee, is in the book under the name of Jeff Sims. To keep the parallel from being too obvious, the author casts another character for the suicide role.

The sinister suggestion is advanced that the death of this character—Duke Forrest—was not by his own hand, but by that of another member of the inner circle that gathered in the little house on "Blue street," where "the real business of governing the United States" America was conducted on a sound, dividend-paying basis.

Contemporary Historical Novel.—As if to make sure that no reader, however obtuse, shall miss the point of the book, the publishers describe it on the jacket as a "contemporary historical novel," where, in the principal character is Willis Markham, excellent poker player, a friend who never forgets a friend, a strong-woman man, jockeyed by Fate into a part too big for him, a lovable average man picked to rule the earth.

The President of the novel dates back to a small town in Michigan. He is taken up by Dan Lurock, a lobbyist, who, because of his unsavory record has never been able to get elective office for himself.

Markham is "pleasant, magnetic, friendly." He has a splendid noble brow. Lurock gets him elected to the State assembly to the governorship, to the United States Senate, and finally to the presidency.

"Nobody except Lurock ever dreamed of him as president," says the novel. "Lurock's luck, however, had made him a national figure."

National Convention Maneuvers.—The maneuvers behind the scenes of the national convention that nominated Markham are described. Bowdoin and Gen. Goodman, the leading candidates, had been refused to deal with the oil crowd, who own "a nice assortment of reasonably priced delegates," puts him out of the running. Bowdoin is killed off by exposure that delegates from the sovereign State of Missouri had been paid to vote for him. As the story has it, the purchase of the delegates was a "frame-up" against Bowdoin by the managers of another candidate.

Bowdoin himself, who did not believe in "direct financing" and in politics, knew nothing about it. The story is narrated as follows by one of the characters, Senator Thorne:

"Markham had sat in the Senate, understood our methods. We would rely on him for conformity. There remained the oil crowd to be dealt with. They had a secret meeting scheduled for midnight. In the expressive language of the day, Dan Lurock crashed the meeting. But he had come there, not to fight, but to conciliate. Markham, who had been here before, was going to a hotel where they were holding the memorial dedication ceremonies at 11 a. m. His party will return to the White House later to a luncheon to be attended by more than 500 persons. The presidential train will depart for Washington in midafternoon.

Plans for a huge reception committee for the President and Mrs. Coolidge were dropped at the request of White House representatives. Six persons, including E. A. Tamm, president of the board of directors of the Liberty Memorial, Mrs. Long, and Mayor and Mrs. E. J. Beach, were named to receive the distinguished visitors.

The book opens with a scene in the "Crow's Nest," a little house on "Blue street," Washington, where Lurock, Sims and their pals, the select inner group of the Markham administration, plotted their grafting enterprises and in the evening relaxed over the poker table.

Markham is affectionately known to the crowd as "Old Bill." He is a frequent member of the poker parties. Because he is hard up and hates to lose, his companions often risk the cards to make him win. He drinks enough to become mellow. Markham, however, is never a participant in the graft. The book makes him out a weak, amiable man, imposed upon by the harpies about him—a man who couldn't say no. In the end, after his disillusionment, he applies to himself the name of "Boob."

On the evening in question, Markham, tired of the surveillance of the secret service men, decided to walk back to the White House alone. His shadows pursue him. To elude them, he leaps a hedge, falls in front of an automobile driven by a woman, and is picked up by her and taken to her home. The episode sets in motion a train of swift-moving and varied events.

Graphic Story of Scandal.—The book is the graphic story of the scandals of the Markham administration. Chapter after chapter is reminiscent of events that marched through the newspaper headlines from 1920 to 1923. Reading of the "crow's nest," and its occupants, one recalls inevitably "the little green house on K street."

Oil runs through the narrative, finally reaching the White House and smearing President Markham. The graft in the Veterans' Bureau, under Forbes, is matched by the peculations of Charlie Madrigal, the gay Lothario of the story, who robbed a friend of his wife and robbed the Department of Public Health by a device closely similar to that exposed at the trial of "Doc" Barker.

Lurock, who made Markham, figures in the book not as the nominal Attorney-General, but as the real Attorney-General, the title of the office being held by a stuffed shirt.

"Handy Andy" Gandy who had been a chum of Markham's in the senatorial days, is the Secretary of Public Health. He takes over all the medical activities of the Government.

The Secretaries of War and the Navy surrendered their hospitals without protest, being politicians of too much tact to oppose the President's move on behalf of his friend Gandy.

Graft and Ranch Purchase.—Gandy becomes the super-grafter of the administration. Suspicion is directed at him because of his purchase of a ranch in California. Markham, standing as always by his friends, gives Gandy a clean bill of health. But finally even Markham becomes suspicious. Thereupon an amiable millionaire of Washington, McBride, one of the "Crow's Nest" crowd, comes forward and says that he lent Gandy the money for the ranch purchase. He produces canceled checks for the amount. McBride later admits that he lied.

Senator Welling is the gang's nemesis. An investigation by the Senate is killed off, but Welling brings it to life. Gradually the net closes about the gang. With the administration on the brink of a terrible scandal, Markham, whose nerves have been frayed, takes his chloride of mercury tablets by mistake for some sleep-inducing pills that his doctor had given him. He discovers the mistake in time to be saved, but declines to say nothing about it. The two or three intimates who know that he had taken poison kept his secret. He dies a hero and a martyr, and the newspapers praise him as a far-seeing and incorruptible man, somewhat like Lincoln.

His last words, typed and given to the press, were "Keep America on top."

Intimate Pen Pictures.—Anybody who starts to read this book and who knows anything about the political history of 1920-23 will read to the end. It is well written. There are a score of intimate pen pictures that Washington natives knew—was more effective than the whole. Poor Bowdoin! I suppose he is still wondering what happened to him. The convention swung to Markham and he was nominated.

Recalls Antagonities.—There's vivid story of the fiercest convention cannot fail to bring recollections of the real Chicago convention of 1920, where the disclosures of payments to the Missouri "gold trust" wrecked the candidacy of Frank O. Lowden and led to the nomination of the comparatively unknown Senator Harding.

FEDERAL BARGES TO PAY OWN WAY, NEWTON ASSERTS

TELLS BENEFITS OF TRAFFIC BY WATER

Cites Reasons Why Big Inand Seaports in Ton-Mile Rate Terms.

River transportation was pictured as the key to prosperity by speakers at a meeting of the Citizens' River Navigation Committee last night at Hotel Chase.

Congressman Cleveland A. Newton, whose coming retirement as leader of the river bloc was mentioned with regret by several speakers, produced figures to show that the Government barge line on the Mississippi River would save enough to pay the public this year, in freight rates below national average freight rates and in net profit, to pay for itself.

"You have no idea how many great industrial plants of the sort we desire to have in St. Louis go to the seashore for the benefit of cheap water transportation," he remarked. "You will recall how shocked we were when the last census showed that St. Louis had fallen behind other cities."

"I went to the chief of engineers to test an idea I had of the cause. Here was what I found: St. Louis averaged 100,000 tons of river freight a year for the last 10 years, while Detroit had averaged 16,000,000 tons of Great Lakes freight traffic and Cleveland had averaged about the same. Is there any reason why the great industries shouldn't go there?"

"Average cost of freight transportation on the Great Lakes is one mill per ton mile. In the Government barge service it is 3.5 mills, and for the railroad it is 11 mills. We in the United States must realize that the railroads are inherent more expensive than waterways, and must be paid a compensatory rate. Let the barges carry the huge quantities of bulk freight and the railroads carry high-class freight and be paid enough to develop their lines as they should be developed."

"Why is it that the farmers can't recover from the effects of the 'World War' Other industries have recovered," St. Louis can't prosper unless the farmers prosper.

"Because the price of the farmer's commodities is fixed by the price at Liverpool less the freight to Liverpool. That is why the price of wheat is so low. The competitors, Australia and the seashore. The same is true in South America and in South Africa."

Compares Foreign Rates.—"Our wheat fields are 1000 miles inland, some of them 1500 miles inland. I don't think the railroads can afford to reduce their rates. The only way to get our inland grain to the sea at rates to compete with foreign fields on the sea is by river transportation."

In this connection Richard Moore, chairman, later pointed out that the railroads had lost here Jackson, Miss., to New Orleans, 142 miles, was exactly the same as the ocean route from New Orleans to Liverpool. W. Frank Carter cited that St. Louis had all-water rates to Buenos Aires the same as the seashore, to Denver, and all-water to Singapore the same as all-rail to Salt Lake City. Carter declared that present trade with Cuba was more remunerative than with France, and with the Antipodes was more remunerative than with all Europe.

Federal barge line had carried 3,500,000 tons of freight last year.

WETS IN CONGRESS TO PRESS BEER BILL

Series of Conferences Soon to Be Held to Outline Short Session Program.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Their ranks augmented somewhat as a result of the recent prohibition referendum, leaders of the wets in Congress plan a series of conferences soon to determine upon a course of action at the coming session.

Their program will include resistance by every parliamentary means possible to the enactment of the pending administration bill tightening the Volstead act and the pressing of measures to amend that act so the definition of intoxicating malt beverages will be the same as that for cider and fruit juices.

Some wet leaders favor a proposal to recommit the eighteenth amendment, but others have indicated that their fight at the start would join their ranks as a result of the referendum in Montana in favor of repealing the State enforcement code have been dissipated by that Senator.

In his first pronouncement since the election, Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montana, an outstanding dry, would join their ranks as a result of the referendum in Montana in favor of repealing the State enforcement code have been dissipated by that Senator.

To Fight Dry Bill.—Senator Edge of New Jersey has announced that the Senatorial wet would fight vigorously against the efforts of Lincoln C. Andrews, chief of the prohibition army, to obtain enactment of a series of bills he fostered to strengthen enforcement of the Volstead act.

While no collective statement has been issued regarding concerted action, it seems assured that these bills will encounter the opposition of such Senators as Edwards (Dem.) of New Jersey and the continued oratorical crossfire of Senator Bruce (Dem.) of Maryland.

Of the three new faces to be seen in the Senate next month as the result of last week's elections, the "wet bloc" apparently captured two—David I. Walsh of Massachusetts and Harry B. Hawes of Missouri.

Written Says Election Has Hastened Volstead Law Modification.

By the Associated Press.

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Nov. 10.—Representative Fred A. Britten (Rep.) of Illinois has outlined here a program for modification of the Volstead act which he declared will be strongly supported in Congress.

"The inevitable modification of the Volstead act has been hastened by the return of students in which voters had opportunity to express themselves in the recent elections than by any other factor since dry legislation was enacted to increase war efficiency," Britten said.

The Republican party is now forced to recognize the people's sentiment on the failure of prohibition as now administered, or face probable defeat in the 1928 presidential contest.

NEW LORD MAYOR OF LONDON INAUGURATED WITH POMP

Sir Rowland Blades, Member of Parliament, Inducted Into Office With Centuries Old Pageantry.

Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Sir Rowland Blades, member of Parliament, Baronet, Alderman, "Citizen and Stationer" (He also is a "gardener" and several other things) was inaugurated Lord Mayor of London yesterday with centuries old pageantry, the chief feature whereof being the historic "Lord Mayor's show."

Mustered at the Guildhall about 11 a. m., it commenced its tortuous march precisely at noon. Innumerable bands, squads of firemen, Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, park rangers, detachments of London's own Territorials (National Guard—horse, foot and guns). The guns which eight or nine years ago were thundering on Flanders plains and at the gates of Jerusalem, preceded State coaches conveying civic dignitaries.

The War Office provided an escort of regular cavalry for the incoming and outgoing Lord Mayors; the latter being compelled to precede his successor, much in the style of a Roman "triumph." Decorous applause greeted Sir William Fryke who laid down his office and uproarious cheers greeted Sir Rowland Blades, who is popular if for no other reason than that he is a well-known member of Parliament, and a cricketer, an inveterate golfer, and popular imagination.

In and around the narrow city streets including, of course, a special tour to the new Lord Mayor's own aldermanic ward, the procession eventually made its way to the high courts of justice, where the Lord Chief Justice, supported by all the Supreme Court Judges, was waiting to administer the oath of office.

The Lord Mayor cordially invited the Judges to attend his inaugural banquet at the Guildhall, an invitation which the two Judges, remembering past convivial evenings, made haste to accept.

London, as usual, turned out in its hundreds of thousands to greet the new chief magistrate, and the children had a joy-day, for there is an abiding joy in the Lord Mayor and his gorgeous State coach drawn by six horses.

RUSSIA ORDERS STUDENTS TO TRAIN FOR THE ARMY

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Nov. 10.—Military training for all university students of both men and women, has been ordered by the Commissariat of War.

Under the order issued yesterday all students are required to take 180 hours' instruction in military science during their regular four-year course and two months' field practice during the summer.

When their university course is finished the men must serve nine months in the army or, if they prefer, one year in the navy.

While the women students are required to take the course with the men, they are exempt from the two months' field practice and active service in the regular army.

INVISIBLE VIRUSES STILL BAFFLE SCIENCE

No Safeguard Yet Against Deadly Sub-microscopic Germs, Dr. Flexner Says.

By WATSON DAVIS,
Managing Editor, Science Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—A brief glimpse into a new world, more minute than that revealed by the most powerful microscope, was given scientists of the National Academy of Sciences here yesterday when Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research of New York, told of researches in progress into one of the world's mystery diseases, encephalitis lethargica, popularly known as sleeping sickness.

There is a realm of invisible organisms living within the animal body. Against these deadly sub-microscopic germs, called viruses, the medical world has no safeguard, Dr. Flexner explained. The bacteriologist cannot grow them, his eyes cannot see them, he can distinguish them only by their effects. Many of the most troublesome diseases, such as encephalitis and the hoof and mouth disease of cattle are caused by these viruses.

A Test That Failed.—In studying encephalitis, which suddenly appeared in the world in 1916 in Europe, and which since 1918 has been epidemic in this country, medical researchers believed that they had found evidence that the virus of this deadly disease was the same as that obtained from ordinary cold sores such as have afflicted the lips of the human race.

The eye of the camera, which of these cold sores when injected into rabbits produced a diseased condition quite similar to that of human encephalitis. But further research, particularly that of the Rockefeller Institute, failed to substantiate the identity of the two viruses, and Dr. Flexner told the academy that the cause of encephalitis was still an unsolved problem.

Two years ago Japan suffered from a severe epidemic of a new disease similar in character to the encephalitis of this country, and Japanese investigators may throw some light on the problem. Seven out of 10 people afflicted in Japan died and the disease has a high fatality rate in this country as well.

The eye of the camera, which of these cold sores when injected into rabbits produced a diseased condition quite similar to that of human encephalitis. But further research, particularly that of the Rockefeller Institute, failed to substantiate the identity of the two viruses, and Dr. Flexner told the academy that the cause of encephalitis was still an unsolved problem.

When Bering Strait Was Land.—Three bear teeth were shown to the academicians by Dr. John C. Merriam, president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, who explained that they were evidence of a land connection between Asia and Japan some million or more years ago. Ten years ago Dr. Merriam found an imperfect bear tooth in the wilderness of Oregon.

Dr. Merriam's find filled a gap in the evolutionary history of the continent that once roamed America. Before the finding by Dr. Merriam of the three teeth of the ancient Oregon bear, scientists were puzzled to account for a sudden appearance in America of a certain sort of now extinct bear, but the Oregon teeth show that that kind of bear emigrated over a now submerged land, connecting Asia and America.

When he reached what is now America, the bear changed his characteristics slightly to conform to American conditions.

Japan's Largest Customer.—"Of all the countries in the world the United States is our largest customer. Naturally this is with its vast area and its large population, buys from us much more than we buy from her. Of raw silk alone your purchases amount to $400,000,000 a year, representing one-third of our total export of that commodity."

"On the other hand, I am gratified that of all countries on the other side of the Pacific Japan is the largest purchaser of American goods. Our imports from that country form the bulk of your trans-Pacific trade. In 1924 they amounted to 27 per cent of our import trade. Japan alone consumes more American goods than all the rest of the vast territories of East-

ANTI-JAPANESE LAWS WILL BRING NO RETALIATION

Instead, Ambassador Matsudaira Says, His Nation
Now Permits Foreigners to Own Land.

THIS MEASURE GOES INTO EFFECT TODAY

Envoy Addresses Business Men and Will Attend Horse Show—At Washington U. Tomorrow.

The Government of Japan will take no retaliatory measures against the United States because of laws of American States which forbid Japanese to own land, Ambassador Tuneso Matsudaira declared in his luncheon address to the Chamber of Commerce today.

The Japanese Ambassador said a new law which went into effect in Japan today, permits citizens or corporations of "any foreign country to own land in fee simple in Japan. In outlining the steps which have led to the new enactment, the Ambassador said:

"In 1910 we passed a law authorizing foreign ownership of land on the basis of reciprocity, but, for some reason or other, it has never been put into effect. Consequently, while foreigners were allowed to lease land, they were not permitted to own it. Means were provided, of course, by which they could indirectly own it through forming a corporation under Japanese law, or by leasing the land for a very long period of time, but it was not speaking. It was not what you call ownership in fee simple."

Reciprocity Proviso Inactive.—"In order to remedy this inconvenience, the new law was passed in the Diet last year, abolishing all restrictions hitherto imposed on alien ownership of land in fee simple. It is true that this new law authorized the Government to issue an ordinance whereby reciprocal measures may be taken in the case of citizens or corporations of a foreign country, but it will not issue such an ordinance."

"This law is to be put into force today, Nov. 10, and citizens or corporations of this country, as well as of any other country, will hereafter be allowed to enjoy in Japan the ownership of land in fee simple. I trust this will make clear the fact that, although there are some states in this country which deny to the Japanese ownership or even the right to lease land, and which in other ways restrict their trade with them, it is nevertheless the intention of my Government to take no retaliatory measures."

Ambassador's Program Here.—Ambassador Matsudaira arrived this morning from Columbia, Mo., and was met by James E. Smith, Japanese Consul, and a Chamber of Commerce committee, with which he went to breakfast at Hotel Chase. He speaks tomorrow morning at Washington University, and will attend the Horse Show to-night at the gymnasium of the city.

He will leave for Washington tomorrow.

In his luncheon address, the Ambassador spoke of the St. Louis World's Fair, the Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904, in which Japan was represented, although Japan was waging war with Russia at that time. In that year, he reminded his hearers, the total volume of trade between Japan and the United States, in both directions, was $60,000,000 yen, or $30,000,000.

BISHOP GLENNON SPEAKS OVER RADIOBroadcasting Set at St. Louis University Dedicated.

Archbishop Glennon spoke last night over radio station WUEW of St. Louis University at the dedication of the new 1000-watt broadcasting set obtained by the university through the efforts of the Catholic Laymen's Association.

The ceremony was made permanent by the presence of Francis R. Lowther, president of the association, and it was in the name of the university by its president, Father Charles H. Cloud, S. J.

Archbishop Glennon would prove effective in dissipating prejudice was expressed by the Archbishop in his address. "May we not hope that it will be the bearer of truth to the people of the earth, and that in place of the prejudices and fears that mark, at present, the life of so many peoples, there will be wisdom and knowledge and wisdom and love and faith," he said.

The operation along national lines is equally true in our local spheres. I have in mind the countless places where some individual, manager or politician, has held people in ignorance and tied them up in the prejudices of their minds, subjecting to him the mind of the community, surcharged with the fear of fellow citizens who differ from them, perhaps, in faith or social usage. Now comes the telling of the better life, the larger things of truth, adventure, and hope. With the introduction of receiving sets among these people the occupation of the local sphere is doomed.

The Archbishop doubted the value of radio in educational fields, holding that education still rests on the attainable only as the result of continued individual study. In radio, however, he said that only the best would be offered, because other kind loses its attraction when deprived of the surroundings which contribute to its effect.

The wave length of the new station has been set at 850 meters, and market reports will continue to be broadcast daily and programs will be offered on Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday nights.

MELOIR, DANISH TENOR

PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

Metropolitan Opera Company Heard by Civic Music League.

Louis Melchior, Danish tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang last night to the great acclaim of an audience which filled the lower floor of the Odeon and occupied a part of the balcony. This distribution resulted from the seating system of the Civic Music League, by which only the best seats are reserved. It was the second concert of this season.

The singer is of massive frame, has a total power which was heard several times, but is not overdone in shading the human history. We have often called him a tenor, but his perfect pitch of the world's population we are proud. The tenor of the world's population we are proud.

Of the total 2,565,000 motor vehicles in the world, the United States has 1,954,000, or 76 per cent, while the country produces 87.5 per cent of the world's output of automobiles.

We have 62 per cent of all the telephone in the world.

The purchase and maintenance of the automobiles and motor trucks of this country now amounts to over $10,000,000,000 a year.

Our population is increasing at the rate of over 2,000,000 a year.

Between 1904 and 1925 our bank deposits rose from $102,356,000,000 to $205,298,000,000.

Our foreign commerce increased from $2,432,000,000 in 1904 to $9,137,000,000 in 1925.

Our building associations advanced during that period from a membership of 679,000, with assets of $618,000,000, to a total membership in 1925 of 8,654,000, with assets of $4,765,000,000.

As late as 1925 we had $2,415,148 in savings banks, while in 1925 we had $1,880,000 savings accounts, with $22,124,000 to their credit.

Similar illustrations could be given with out end, but the story is told in full in the issue in a comprehensive survey of the progress of America in the last 25 years, republished from the Review of Reviews for which publication the article was written by the editor of the Manufacturers' Record.

STATE PRIDE AND JEALOUSY.

From the Portland Oregonian.

A LOS ANGELES newspaper, none other than the excellent Times, quarrels hotly with the phrasing of a recent article on the Florida gale, appearing in the London Telegraph. The Telegraph styled the Florida coast "the Riviera of the United States."

Without doubt, the phrase is a bit smack over the line, but the pleasant words, that have been used so often for that matter, in this country. But the Times will have none of it. There is no such thing as the Riviera of the United States, it contends, and it is found along the idle California coast.

So much ado about this supposed "plumage." There is but one Florida. There is the Northwest, nor yet the Riviera, nor the Monte Carlo, nor to any entitlement other than our own.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mrs. John Butler Johnstone.

THE interest of society is centered today on the wedding of Miss Laura Louise Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Leonard Price, who since her debut three seasons ago has been one of its most popular members, and Samuel Tucker Gay, son of Dr. and Mrs. Roger W. Gay of Arcadia, Mo., which will take place at 6 o'clock in St. Peter's Episcopal Church. Chrysanthemums, used so much during the fall months, will be used in the decorations, and their colors will be reflected in the costumes of the bridal party.

The church will have clusters of mums in its chancel, and miniature bay trees will mark the entrance to the family pews. The Rev. Dr. Edward Schofield Travers will officiate. The bridegroom is of white chiffon velvet, made simply on straight lines, with a velvet sash tied in front and ending in pearl ornaments. There is a four-yard court train weighted with orange blossoms depending from the shoulders, and a tulle veil arranged to cover her face, held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She will carry an unusual bouquet of real orange blossoms sent from California, combined with lilacs of the valley and white meadow.

Miss Frances Friston, who is to be maid of honor, will be gown in yellow broadcloth velvet made in a sleeveless mode, with a draped skirt fastened with a rhinestone ornament. She will wear gold slippers and a headpiece of tiny gold laurel leaves with a layer of tulle covering the hair. Mrs. Harold Reed Wilson, as her sister's matron of honor, will be gown in burnt orange velvet, and the bridesmaids, Mrs. John Butler Johnstone, formerly Miss Jessie Carr; Mrs. Henry Garcia Isaacs, formerly Miss Grace Layman; Mrs. Robert Blackwell Whittemore III, formerly Miss Mary Elizabeth Edwards; Mrs. Lee Pettit Gay, sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Miss Helen Marsh of Amherstburg, Ontario, and Miss Susan Bass of Buffalo, N. Y., will wear shades of yellow velvet made in the same fashion. Each will carry yellow shaded chrysanthemums.

Immediately preceding the bride will be Ann and Martin Wilson, her nieces, as flower girls, wearing pale yellow georgette with lace collars and carrying old-fashioned bouquets of chrysanthemums tied with the autumn shades.

Dr. George Gay will be his brother's best man, and Harold Reed Wilson, Virgil Lewis, Charles Avery, James M. Douglas, Dr. Lee Pettit Gay, James Mortimer Price and Vincent Leonard Price Jr., brothers of the bride, and George Clarkson Jr., groomsmen.

Following the ceremony a reception will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Price, 622 Forsythe boulevard, where a marriage time with wild similar and bitterness, has been built to provide additional space. The receiving party will stand in the living room before a background of chrysanthemums, and the same flowers will adorn the bride's table.

Mr. Gay and his bride will return to St. Louis to reside after the wedding trip.

Miss Price is a graduate of Mary Institute and Miss Wright's school in Bryn Mawr, and is a member of the Junior League.

Mr. Gay is an alumnus of Culver Military Academy and the University of Missouri. He is a member of the University Club.

The first costume party of the debutante season will be given tonight by Mr. and Mrs. Warren Finley McElroy of 22 Portland place, to present their second daughter, Miss Ruth, to society. The affair will be in the nature of a Spanish dance and the costumes will represent dancing girls, señoritas and gay caballeros.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Smyth of Brentwood will depart in a few weeks for the East, to sail from New York Dec. 2, on the Empress of Scotland on a world cruise. They will be gone five months.

Mrs. and Mrs. Chester Cordwell Staples will be hosts at a dinner party in their quarters at Jefferson Barrows tonight, preceding military night at the Horse Show. Later they will be members of a party at the performance.

A reception in honor of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. John W. MacIvor is to be held in the parlors of the Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and Westminster place, tomorrow night, in celebration of Dr. MacIvor's tenth anniversary as pastor of the church.

The College Club will entertain at tea Friday from 2 to 5, in honor of the delegates to the Mortar Board convention, which is meeting at Washington University.

Among the hostesses are Mrs. Herbert S. Hadley, Mrs. Alfred H. Mansfield, Mrs. W. Ridgely Young, Mrs. Fred Hammond, Mrs. Roy V. Coffey, Mrs. William E. Shahan, Mrs. F. Ray Leinhardt and Miss Claudine Fay, president of the local chapter of Mortar Board.

Mary Institute Alumnae are interested in a puppet play to be presented Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Founder's Hall of the school by Alfred and Dorothy Kreymbourg. The play, written by Mr. Kreymbourg, will be given in the new Mushroom Theater, owned by him.

RUSSIAN BARITONE,
JOSEPH SCHWARZ, DIESSinger Had Nervous Attack in St. Louis in 1924 After Encounter With Dog.

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Joseph Schwarz, baritone of the Berlin Civic Opera and former member of the Chicago and San Francisco Opera Companies, died today during an operation for a kidney complaint. He was 46 years old.

His widow was Mrs. Clara Siencken, whose first husband was known as a coffee king.

Mr. Schwarz, a Russian by birth, was in St. Louis in March, 1924, to sing with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, but a nervous shock resulting from an unfortunate experience with a dog caused him to cancel the performance.

He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Angert, on Clayton road, during his stay here, and a few hours before the first concert went for a walk. Near the Angert home a bulldog leaped at him, scratching his wrist. The shock of the experience affected his voice. He attempted to sing, but almost immediately fled to the wings.

What factors make the Perfect Cup of Coffee?

WHAT fascinating tales your morning cup of Old Judge could tell... of strange people and strange lands... of snowy expanse of fragrant white blossoms on the plantations of sunny Mexico; of dusky Abyssinian maidens singing as they fill great bags of coffee... of wiry little brown men of Java sorting coffee under the blazing sun... of vast expanses of Brazil, famed for tropical luxuriance.

On backs of men... by burro... by bullock, it would tell you it was transported to quaint historic seaports. Across the sea to bustling American ports, then whisked half way across the continent to spacious Old Judge warehouses. Here experts in blending and roasting are ever zealously guarding the delicious goodness of Old Judge Coffee.

ALL these facilities and the zeal and resources of a vast, tireless organization have produced Old Judge Coffee—an organization whose sole aim and purpose is to bring you more Coffee Joy—to give to you the Perfect Cup of Coffee.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membrane and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

U. S. TO CONTINUE ITS INVESTIGATION AT LEAVENWORTH

Warden W. I. Biddle, Who Has Resigned, Hasn't Been Exonerated, Attorney-General Implies.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
29-33 Wyatt Bldg.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Warden W. I. Biddle of the Federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., whose resignation, effective Dec. 15, was announced yesterday, has not been exonerated by the Department of Justice and the investigation of conditions at the prison will be continued. This was the impression given by Attorney-General Sargent when asked what further steps would be taken in the investigation, which already has consumed almost two years. Sargent refused to answer directly any question relating to Biddle and at first would say only that Biddle had presented his resignation some time ago and that in deference to the wish of Sargent he had remained in office. At first the Attorney-General tried to give the impression that there had been no intention of a thorough inquiry into prison conditions when Thomas White, a special agent of the Bureau of Investigation, was sent to Leavenworth to take the place of Deputy Warden Herbert, who was said to be ill. However, when it developed that St. Louis correspondents knew about the investigation, Sargent changed his tactics. Says Biddle Gave No Reason. When asked what reason Biddle had given for resigning, Sargent finally said that, as he recalled, no explanation had been given. When asked whether the investigators' report had exonerated Biddle, Sargent preferred not to answer. He also refused to say just when he had received the resignation on the ground that no good purpose would be served. Again he declined to make a direct answer when asked whether criminal charges would be brought against Biddle or a Kansas City lawyer for alleged favoritism to wealthy prisoners in the matter of appointments and paroles. With some show of heat, Sargent declared that it was not the policy of the department to advertise when it intended to make criminal charges. Sargent did say that the investigation had been going on for a year and might go on for another year. Later, he modified this to "as long as necessary." He followed this with a dissertation on prison administration, relating how routine investigations were made, always with a view to better conditions. This had no particular bearing on the Leavenworth inquiry. Returning to the subject of Leavenworth, he stated that Thomas White would become acting Warden of the prison Nov. 16 and serve until a permanent Warden could be appointed by the Superintendent of Prisons, an office left vacant by the death last summer of Luther White. Sargent added that the department had been making strenuous efforts to find a suitable superintendent, but so far had been unsuccessful. Biddle will begin a month's vacation on Nov. 13.

ern Asia, including your own Philippine Islands and the Dutch East Indies. Thus the trade which crosses the Pacific has been always on the increase, and I am hoping that we will see its further growth with the advance of time. "I am fully aware that trade is by no means the only thing that counts in the maintenance of peace and friendship between nations, but when nations are bound together not only by the sentiment of traditional friendship and good will but also by substantial trade interests, their relations are made all the sounder and firmer. "It is a matter of mutual satisfaction," the Ambassador said, "that all obligations imposed by the Washington conference treaty regarding limitation of armaments have been faithfully carried out by the Powers concerned. There is every reason to believe that these Powers, in a spirit of co-operation and friendship, will go in the direction of still further reduction. In full appreciation of this new world tendency, Japan is pursuing a constructive policy of co-operation and understanding in all her international dealings, and devoting all her available resources and energies to her cultural and economic development, while she is retrenching expenditures for her armaments to the minimum absolutely necessary for her safety. And this, we are convinced, is the best way to secure our true and lasting interests."

FEDERAL BARGES TO PAY OWN WAY.
NEWTON ASSAYS

Some bushels of wheat in the last three months at a freight rate saving shippers $140,000. By the end of this year, he cited an official estimate, the time would have carried 1,250,000 tons of freight and collected $5,151,721, at a net profit of $947,832. Favors Small River Lines. The river rate is 80 per cent of rail rates parallel to the river. Those rail rates because of river competitions, were only about 58 per cent of the average rail rate throughout the country. Newton explained. If there were no river, he computed, shippers would have spent $11,545,000 on the freight carried by the barge line for $5,151,000. That saving, $6,414,000, plus the "saving" represented by profits of the line, which he added because it is operated by the Government, would be "sufficient to replace the entire fleet in one year."

Shallow-draft transportation on small rivers, as proposed by the Standard Unit Navigation Co. with its caterpillar type towboat which recently made a trip to Chicago by the long unused "I. and M." canal, was approved by Newton as a local feeder for trunk lines like the Mississippi.

David Lloyd George's famous report when asked what most impressed him in St. Louis—"The non-use of your great river"—was cited by Newton and taken up by Carter and W. Palmer Clarkson, both of whom were among the half-dozen present at the luncheon where he made it. It has been quoted many times, but Clarkson added to it. He said that he met Lloyd George a few months later in London, and the British statesman's first question was: "Have you begun to use your river?"

WANTS--REAL-ESTATE

Police Board today from Circuit
Judge Ittner's court to Circuit Judge Calhoun.

This action followed the withdrawal of an application for a change of venue made by Police Commissioners Kortjohn and Freund, in which they had alleged prejudice against police on the part of Judge Ittner. Attorney Arthur Bader, representing the Police Board, wished to present the motion for a change of venue, but when counsel for Russo indicated that he had no objection to a transfer it was made by consent rather than by change of venue.

Police had been raiding Russo's filling station because they believed it to be a rendezvous of gangsters and weapons were always kept there. During a partial hearing of the case on Oct. 21, Judge Ittner and the Police Board's counsel clashed over testimony of Police Capt. Nally. Judge Ittner ruled that Capt. Nally must disclose confidential police information, then held the order in abeyance pending a search of the statutes for authority on the law. This disagreement motivated the Police Commissioners in their action for a change of venue.

Judge Ittner, it will be recalled, temporarily ruled against police in the slot machine injunction case last April and a change of venue was taken to Judge Calhoun, who set aside the restraining order against raids on slot machines.

PRECINCT JUDGES IN PHILADELPHIA HELD

Recount Shows Five Votes for Wilson, Though Tally Was "Zero."

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—
Three precinct election officers have been held in $1000 bail for the grand jury for "zeroing" candidates other than the Republicans in their returns of last week's election in this city.

When the Second Division of the Thirty-sixth Ward was reached in the official count yesterday Judges James G. Gordon Jr. and Charles B. McMichael, presiding over the election court, could not understand the unanimity of the voters of this division when the returns showed 295 for each of the Republican candidates from W. S. Vane for United States Senator down to the lowest office, while the Democratic candidates, headed by William B. Wilson, were not credited with a single vote.

Their suspicions being aroused, the court summoned the election officers and made them open the ballot box and recount the ballots.
This showed that Wilson had received five votes and that other Democratic candidates also had been voted for. Vane was shown to have received 295.

The judge and minority inspectors of this division, all Negroes, could not explain the discrepancy, but insisted that they tried to make an honest count. The court, however, had its doubts, and Judge Gordon, sitting as a committing magistrate, held the three men in $1000 bail, each on charges of conspiracy to make a false return and of making a false return.

"Utterly Indifferent."
In holding the three Negroes, Judge Gordon told them it was apparent that their return was "false," and that they were "utterly indifferent" to the rights of the voters.

"Here is enough evidence," he added, "for a jury to find that you made a false return. You could not have made such a mistake and I deem it my duty to hold you for the grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to make a false return and making a false return."

Judge Gordon also ordered the apprehension of two other election officers of the same division, one of them a woman, who failed to appear before the election court yesterday.

Discrepancy of 35 Votes.
Discrepancies were found in the unofficial count in several of the other "zero" divisions, notably the Fourteenth of the Thirty-fourth Ward. In this division the official count gave Wilson 35 votes, although he had not been credited with a single ballot on the unofficial return sheet. This and other errors were ordered corrected, after the election officials had convinced the Court the mistakes had been unintentional.

Committee Watching Canvass.
The canvass of the city vote, expected to be concluded today, has been carefully watched by the Committee of Seventy, a body of independent citizens that has worked for years in Philadelphia in the interest of clean elections.

The unofficial figures of the election gathered last Tuesday night by a combination of the Philadelphia newspapers and Police Department, showed that more than a score of divisions out of 1500 in the city had returned zeros for the Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

So far the official canvass showed about 28 divisions where no Wilson votes were recorded and an equal number where only one vote was credited for him.

Polarine and Performance

The performance of individual cars may vary, but the performance of every car depends, to a large degree, on the same factor—lubrication.

A new car poorly lubricated may give more trouble than an ancient model that is perfectly lubricated. The motor oil affects performance more than age.

Improper lubrication always causes trouble in the engine. Surface grinds against surface using every piece of dirt or grit as a weapon of destruction. A slow steady fight goes on between the parts of the engine until they wear each other out and the car breaks down.

If you want smooth, sustained performance from your car, keep it lubricated with Polarine, the perfect motor oil.

Consult the chart at any Standard Oil Service Station or authorized garage for the grade of Polarine made expressly for your car.

LIFELONG RESIDENT OF ST. LOUIS

Tell Why He Thinks So Much of the Famous Herb Extract Called Herb Juice.

Mr. Michael Ragen of 4317A Hawthorne avenue, who has been resident of St. Louis, Mo., his entire life, says he thinks Herb Juice is the most satisfactory medicine he has ever used, and he will gladly grant a personal interview to anyone who desires it.

MR. MICHAEL RAGEN.

In telling of his experience with Herb Juice Mr. Ragen said: "My water was using this medicine and when I saw how much good it was doing me I decided to try it also as I was in just about the same stage of health. I was taking medicine continually, taking medicine of various kinds, but I was not getting any relief to speak of. My main trouble was with the bowels as I was always constipated and the doctor that accumulated had about ruined my entire system. Liver was trouble rather sluggish and my stomach was in a terrible upset condition. Food did not seem to digest properly, but instead lay in the stomach, and I was suffering from the great deal of suffering from gas and indigestion pains.
Just then after I began using Herb Juice until I was feeling a great deal better and now after taking regularly for some time I can truthfully say I feel 100 per cent better in every way. Bowels are regular and I no longer suffer with gas or indigestion pains or trouble. After using Herb Juice regularly with such wonderful results, and also seeing what it has done for my sister, I am satisfied beyond a doubt that it is a medicine of exceptional merit and expect to start my wife using it as soon as she is in a run-down condition. In short, Herb Juice is a household necessity and if anyone here wants my personal word as to what I think of Herb Juice I will be glad to tell them at any time."
Don't fail to see the Herb Juice advertisements, who has established himself at Wiegman's drug store, 514 Washington avenue, and that has relieved thousands of people right here in St. Louis. This is the Herb Juice, now selling at the rate of more than a million copies yearly.

1673 MAP ON EXHIBIT
IN LAKE LEVEL SUIT

It Was Made by Father Marquette and Shows Drainage Into Lake Michigan.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—A map drawn by Father Marquette in his explorations of the Illinois River headwaters in 1673 may prove a decisive factor in the pending great lakes level controversy.

Dr. James W. Goldthwait, professor of geology at Dartmouth College and complainant's witness in Supreme Court chancery proceedings before Charles Evans Hughes, special master, was called today to resume a historical account of more than 100 maps showing geological configurations at the South end of Lake Michigan and the probable influence of the artificial Chicago drainage canal upon the natural flow of waters.

Among his exhibits is a photostatic print of the first known map of the territory, that of Father Marquette, believed to have been drawn in the spring of 1673. This among several lineal miles of maps in evidence, is the only plat indicating a continuous flow of water from the Des Plaines River into Lake Michigan by way of the Chicago River channel. All other contours reveal a natural divide between the headwaters of the two rivers, along the line of what is now Kedzie avenue, Chicago.

Importance of Map. The point is considered vital for one of the principal contentions of the complainants is that the drainage canal, which reversed the flow of the Chicago River, joined two great continental river systems, the Mississippi and the St. Lawrence, over a natural barrier. Dr. Goldthwait described the Kedzie Ridge as a continental divide. Evidence introduced yesterday included a letter from Secretary of State Kellogg to the British Ambassador in Washington in which it was conceded that the actual flow through the sanitary district's locks at Lockport, Ill., averaged 9700 cubic feet a second during 1924 and at times reached 12,000.

Secretary Kellogg's letter was in response to a representation from the British embassy that Canada's interest in the Great Lakes level demanded the protection of the State Department, Canada, which has long been an opponent of the sanitary district's diversion program, is not represented directly in the present proceedings.

Points in Controversy. The complainants, the states of Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, seeks to enjoin the Chicago sanitary district from withdrawing waters in such quantities as, in their view, impairs lake shipping through lowering of the normal surface level.

The states of Illinois, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi are represented with the sanitary district in opposing the move.

The complainants centered their fire yesterday on two points which they hold to be the crux of the controversy. They sought to establish that the sanitary district and its predecessor, Chicago's drainage commission, had burdened the population of downstate Illinois and the contiguous territory in the Mississippi basin with polluted water, and that adequate artificial sewage disposal plants would make unnecessary withdrawal of water sufficient to constitute a burden on Great Lakes shipping.

Hughes overruled a defense objection to inclusion in the record of excerpts from previous inquiry into the problem by War Department engineers and committees of the Illinois Legislature through these records, together with elaborations by counsel, more than 1,000,000 words of evidence was put in the record, detailing the history of the controversy since the opening of old Illinois-Mississippi canal in 1865.

Pending final disposition of the case, the sanitary district has authority from the Secretary of War to withdraw $500 cubic feet of water a second for drainage purposes.

JIMMY HOGAN UNDER ARREST

Brother of Gang Leader Held on State Dry Law Charge.

Jimmy Hogan, notorious police character and brother of "Jelly-roll" Hogan, head of the Hogan gang, was arrested yesterday afternoon and released on bond, pending application for a warrant charging him with violation of the State bone-dry law.

The arrest was made as a result of the failure of Federal authorities to prosecute him, following a raid recently on a garage in the rear of his home, 3043 Madison street, quantities of beer, beer mash and accessories being seized in the garage. Police and prohibition agents made the raid. Hogan disclaimed knowledge of the contents of the garage.

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement, but each dose helps to strengthen the bowel muscles, short-

Rudolph Shares Cue Lead With Ralph Greenleaf

Defeats Taborski in Sena-tional Match for Third Straight Victory.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—
The virtuosity of his sensational defeat of Frank Taborski, Schenectady, one of the favorites to win the title, Erwin Rudolph, Chicago, today shared the lead in the world's champion pocket billiard tournament with Ralph Greenleaf, New York. Both Greenleaf and Rudolph have won three games and lost none.

Taborski's defeat by the Chicago player to fourth place. Harry O.
Walsh, Pittsburgh, with two victories and no defeats, also moving ahead him.

Rudolph in Great Form.
Taborski's defeat came as a surprise. Rudolph was in brilliant form, making high runs of 55 and 35, and nearly always leaving the balls in unplayable positions for his opponent. The Chicagoan's average of 13.8-9 was the highest so far made and the match was the shortest of the tournament.

Dartmouth enters the Cornell contest with hardly the confidence and assurance of last year—but with determination to again show the winning side. There was a loss in the making at Harvard, but injuries retarded the development. Cornell, except for the Columbia defeat, has appeared to be a fine team, but, even so, will have to outscore fighting Dartmouth team to win.

Maryland Deserved to Win.
Yale presented in the Maryland game a lineup which was the strongest, consistent with safety, which Yale could muster. Maryland won. Maryland deserved to win and has our congratulations.

Columbia and Penn meet again.
Both eleven have been beaten, but the game itself is what counts and there will be as great interest in this game as if both teams were undefeated. Penn, on the face of understanding, should win—but Columbia wonders this year and the outcome is a toss-up. N. Y. U. should win over Davis Elkins, though it will be a real battle. Lafayette should defeat Susquehanna easily.

Pitt surprised by winning from West Virginia last week and by so easily entering the game against Washington and Jefferson as favored. It should be a fine game.
Jilly engages Georgetown. On record Navy should win. Navy has some victories to her credit. The Navy cannot lose through this one.

Yale Concedes Nothing.
Princeton's victory over Harvard will in all probability make the Yale a prime favorite over Yale.
Princeton during recent years has often off to slow starts, but have made their stride in the last two games and this year seems to be no exception. Yale has suffered severely from injuries and the resultant loss in team play, but even so, it is far from ready to concede victory to the Orange and Black.
Football is like baseball and sometimes games at least one respect.
A fine pitcher makes a mediocre team a championship aggustion. A Slagle, an Oberlander, or a Tryon makes a good football team a great one. And while most football games are won and lost in the rush line, a fine back, who can run, kick and pass, and tremendous responsibilities to the defensive line.

The regular weekly meeting of American Hotel laid complete plans for raising the school's quota in the Camp Memorial, which is $700.

Arrangements were also made for Lattice Breaks, Boy Falls From Roof to Ring

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—
A fight between Billy Kerz and Benny Taylor, bantam weights, with Joe Jeannette, old time negro boxer, as referee, had nearly ended last night when the 1200 spectators in Grotto auditorium, Jersey City, heard the splintering of wood.

They looked up to see a six-foot section of lattice-work falling from the roof, 50 feet above them. After it, arms and legs outspread, came John Hickey, 15, of Hoboken. Men and women started for the exits, fearing the roof was falling, but police prevented a panic.

Young Hickey stuck a wooden beam and finally landed in the center of the ring between the startled fighters. He was taken to City Hospital, where physicians said he had suffered a fractured skull and arms.

Employees of the auditorium said the boy had climbed a ladder to the roof and had been peering at the fight from a spot near the skylight when the lattice work gave way. The fight was continued after order had been restored.

Saturday.

The running of the $2500 fall
Derby of the Madison Kennel Club will take place Saturday night. It was announced this morning by officials. The first of the elimination events for the Derby was run last night and resulted in a victory for Maid of Honor, winner of the Butte, Mont., Derby. The second heat is the feature of tonight's program.

Maid of Honor's race was a sparkling effort, for she came from far back to finish going away from Motor Speed and Billy Philson in the same manner which has gained for her a reputation as one of the best race goers now racing.
Billy Philson was the early pacemaker and he led the pack for three-quarters of the distance. Actor Boy was the one to go after him and he pursued the flying leader valiantly to the last turn, with Maid of Honor lying in third position.

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Innocent Bystander.
PHIL DE CATEBY BALL, who was on the receiving end of a losing season in the late pen-nate race—and in previous baseball campaigns we know of—is not through with his worries.

Ball is on the eve of receiving source—to wit, Milwaukee.

Ball and the Browers have been rather thick, as is customary with ma-league clubs that want to juggle

Ball last season brought Fred Schulte, the outfielding star of the American Association, from Milwaukee. The price, Ball admits, was at least $75,000.

Now he stands to lose the player, with nothing to show for it but a canceled check.
Schulte has asked of the Milwaukee club 10 per cent of the purchase price. If it is not forthcoming, he will not report to the Browns.

The queer jigger, Old Man
Law, as laid down by Organized Baseball, holds that in such case Ball is out the $75,000. Added to the season just recorded, this will make the Browns' exchequer look like a mausoleum decorated in red ink.

However—
SCHULTE may not be so hard-hearted. He may see the light and report; rather than lose his baseball standing, which is the heavy penalty that would be his portion if he failed to appear.
His career, like that of little afternoon yesterday when he went

December. Salary increase is certain for Hornsbey. What will happen to Rickey, not what will happen to Hornsbey, seems to be the question.

No matter what timber Rickey supplied the club with, nothing came of the material until HORNSEY put the machine in running order. And that's the point which makes it plain Rickey will lead the Cardinals into another championship.

Billikens Polish
Form for Loyola Game Saturday

Chicago School's Kidnaped Mascoe to Appear at Rally Friday Night.

Coach Bob Mathews at St. Louis University continues to send his Billiken football men through polishing-up exercises and has dispensd with scrimmaging for the rest of the season. Everyone is in fairly good condition except Whitely Kahle, captain and end, who may not be able to play against Loyola U. of Chicago in the Homecoming day game Saturday.

After the Loyola contest two more tough ones remain on the schedule. Oklahoma, one of the most dangerous teams in the Missouri Valley conference and conqueror of Missouri, must be met at Norman, Ok., a week from Saturday. Four days later the Billikens take on South Dakota State of Brookings, S. D. Here at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis is one of the leaders in its conference.

Loyola University's mascot, Billy goat, which was kidnaped from its Chicago home and spirited away by three St. Louis U. students a few days ago, continues to occupy the spotlight. Informally, in the company of students, the goat visited a number of restaurants at Grand and Olive yesterday afternoon, but will not make a formal appearance until Friday evening at a rally, probably in the quadrangle.

fans. One of his last bouts in the Mound City will be recalled by the followers of the ring. At that time he met "Pewee" Kaiser in a 10-round battle, handing "Pewee" a very decisive lacing. Smith has proven himself a very sensational boxer and fight fans look forward to a bout full of action.

Johnny Williams is unknown to local fans. However, he has built up a worthwhile record on the Pacific Coast, from where he hails.
Recently he invaded the territory in and around Chicago and principal cities of Ohio, meeting the promising boys in his district. His list of victories includes Joe Ryder of New York, whom he gave a trouncing in a 12-round bout, and for whom he is substituting tonight.

In the semifinal eight-round event, Tom Pivac, local light-heavyweight, who holds an enviable record of 21 consecutive victories, will exchange punches with Harry Ethington of Mattson, Ill., the boxer who last winter knocked out
"Rocky" Adams in the second round of a scheduled eight-round bout.

The entire SITUATION contains nothing that will not be corrected when Bredon and Hornsbey get together, early in December. Salary increase is certain for Hornsbey. What will happen to Rickey, not what will happen to Hornsbey, seems to be
the question.

No matter what timber Rickey

PREP LEAGUE NOW MEMBER OF STATE HIGH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

MAY COMPETE IN MISSOURI CHAMPIONSHIPS

Teams, Unhindered Like Those of St. Louis High Schools, May Make Trips for Games.

The six schools of the St. Louis Preparatory School League have joined the Missouri State High School Association. It was announced today by officials of the local organization.

The schools involved are McBride High School, Western Military Academy of Alton, Country Day School of St. Louis County and St. Louis University High School, Chaminade College, St. Louis Country and Christian Brothers College.

The entrance of the Prep League will enable its teams to compete in the Missouri State Championship Association annual championships. The St. Louis County and the St. Louis High Schools are also members of the Missouri State Association. The county schools compete in the State title events at Columbia, but St. Louis high schools are barred by a precedent of the St. Louis School Board which bars local school athletes from competing against schools situated more than 25 miles from St. Louis.

The Prep League is not handicapped in this manner, and it will occasionally be represented in the various title events for Missouri honors.

The Prep League, by its entry into the State body must conform to State eligibility rules. There are now over 100 teams in the State Association all playing under the same rules and under officials designated by the State body.

EAST ST. LOUIS HIGH MEETS JERSEYVILLE

Jerseyville High will be the opponent of East St. Louis High Saturday at Parsons Field in the last at-home contest of the East Side school. The team will journey to Quincy Nov. 20 and will play in Edwardsville on Thanksgiving day.

One or two tablets at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please—no danger.

Concrete is the aristocrat of pavements

Cape Girardeau Has 32 Miles of Concrete Streets

Cape Girardeau, Missouri, laid its first concrete street pavement thirteen years ago. This is still in fine condition, and in all that time has required very little maintenance.

The same is true of all other concrete pavement the city has laid.

Cape Girardeau now has a total of 729,000 square yards of concrete, equivalent to 32 miles of streets ranging in width from 25 to 50 feet.

Much of this is in the residential sections where its pleasing, light gray color is especially appreciated.

Concrete streets have other highly important advantages; they are always safe to drive on, they remain true and even, they dress up any neighborhood.

These are some of the reasons why more than 1,000 cities and towns laid concrete streets in 1925.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

Healed by Cuticura.
"My face was covered with pimples. They were hard, red and large, and festered and scalded over. The pimples itched and burned causing me to scratch them and scratching caused eruptions. They made my face look awful for some time, and I lost my rest at night on account of the irritation.
"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using I purchased a cake of Cuticura Ointment which completely healed me."

What Causes Stomach Gas?
INTESTINAL STASIS, say famous specialists, afflicts three people out of every four! That statement might mean a lot to the average man or woman, but it is not for one startling fact. It is this: Recent medical discoveries show that most cases of gas bloating, sour stomach and indigestion are due to just that one thing—Intestinal Stasis.
Intestinal Stasis
IMPROPER food, lack of exercise and other faults of modern life are the cause of this insidious disease. In everyday language Intestinal Stasis means the too slow movement of waste food matter through the intestines or bowels. By staying too long in the body, this matter ferments, gives off gas, hinders digestion and poisons the whole system.
Even if the bowels move daily, through old habits or lack of exercise, gas, causing bloating, gas, gas, sleeplessness and nervousness. Ordinary laxatives or soda water—magnesia may give temporary relief—but that is all. Intestinal Stasis can be relieved permanently only by continued, REAL Intestinal Cleansing.
Stops Gas Quickly
DR. CARL WESCHCKE, in his private practice, first used the bowel cleanser and intestinal purgative now known as Adlerika. It is a compound of the best vegetable, mineral and chemical ingredients with glycerine and other purgatives. Unlike other medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel.
The first effect of Adlerika is to relieve gas on the stomach and gas bloating. Often just ONE spoonful brings out a surprising amount of poisonous waste matter

GAME FOUR.
WITH the announcement of the identities of the players who were to participate in the Bridge game, broadcast last night from Station KSD, devotees of the game knew they were to have a treat.
At the card table, in addition to Mr. Work and Mr. Whitehead who were partners, were Mr. Sidney S. Lenz of New York, called "The Champion of Champions," and Mrs. E. V. Shepard, president of Shepard's Studio, probably the only college of Auction Bridge in the world.
A spirited contest was promised by this distribution of cards:
Mr. Work, Dealer, in the "South" position: Spades, K, Q, J, 10, 5; Hearts, none; Diamonds 2; Clubs, K, Q, 10, 9, 7, 4, 3.
Mr. Lenz, "West": Spades, 7, 6; Hearts, A, Q, J, 10, 5, 4, 2; Diamonds, K, 4; Clubs, 8 spot, 6.
Mr. Whitehead, "North": Spades, 9, 8 spot, 4, 3; Hearts, 9, 8 spot, 3; Diamonds, Q, 10, 9, 8 spot, 5; Clubs, 2.
Mr. Shepard, "East": Spades, A, 2; Hearts, K, 7, 6; Diamonds, A, J, 7, 6, 3; Clubs, A, J, 5.
Mr. Work, with his "two suiter" hand, bid spades at once. He much preferred his major suit with its four honors to his clubs although which you never guessed was in your system and which may have been the hidden cause of indigestion, nervous dyspepsia, headache, sleeplessness.

Adlerika is not a cure-all. In cases of gastric ulcers or deep-seated organic trouble, a good physician should be consulted. But if your trouble is due to Intestinal Stasis (as many stomach and bowel disorders are), Adlerika gives surprisingly quick relief. Even if your bowels move daily, you'll be surprised at the amount of additional matter Adlerika often brings out—and how much better you'll feel after taking it. Sold by 39,000 druggists.

his club suit was two cards longer. Mr. Lenz bid two hearts. He did not try to make a pre-emptive bid, even with his unusual heart strength, because he knew that a pre-emptive bid after an adverse bid is of little value.
Mr. Whitehead passed. Although he had four of his partner's spades and a singleton he did not have sufficient strength for an assist.
Mr. Shepard also passed. His own strong holding made game seem certain in hearts. By passing he signified approval of his partner's bid.
Mr. Work then showed his long strong club suit by bidding three clubs. This bid gave Mr. Whitehead the chance to choose between clubs and spades for the best bid of the partner's combined hands—pretty team work that makes for maximum scores.
Mr. Lenz bid three hearts. This told his partner that his original heart bid was not his own defensive measure, and that his strength justified a re-bid.
Mr. Whitehead said three spades. His four spades and singleton club justified a raise for a partner who had bid such a suit.
Mr. Shepard bid four hearts. He had much more strength than actually necessary to raise a partner who had bid up to three unassisted.
Mr. Work went to four spades. The character of his own hand and of his partner's raise made him confident he would lose only one trick, "one diamond, and one club trick."
Mr. Lenz and Mr. Whitehead passed. Mr. Shepard bid five hearts. He felt there was a sure game in hearts for him and his partner, and comparatively little to be gained by doubling spades.
Mr. Work bid five spades. He expected to lose a trick, but thought this loss while it would avert a game in hearts for the opponents.
Mr. Lenz, partly as a defensive measure, went to six hearts, which held the bid. Mr. Work felt that a bid of six spades or a double of the hearts entailed the possibility of two great losses. It could not be the lowest of four clubs, since Mr. Work's bidding marked him with at least five clubs, and there were five between Mr. Lenz and Mr. Shepard. Figuring the deuce as a singleton placed Mr. Work with seven.
Mr. Lenz figuring Mr. Work with these seven clubs and at least the five spades which his spade bid indicated, saw that Mr. Work had only one card in the red suits and perhaps a trick in the black suits. This placing of the cards made Mr. Lenz sure that he could discard a losing spade or club on one of Dummy's diamonds.
Therefore he played the ace of clubs from Dummy on the first trick; Mr. Work played the 2; Declarer the 6.
Dummy led the 6 of hearts; Mr. Work threw off the 4 of clubs; Declarer played his ace; and "North" the 3 of hearts.
Mr. Lenz next led his heart queen; "North" played the 2 spot. Dummy the 7; "South" discarded the 7 of clubs.
Declarer led the 2 of heart. Mr. Whitehead played the 9. Dummy won with the king and "South" discarded the 2 of clubs.
The opponents' trumps were all out. So Dummy led the 3 of diamonds. Mr. Work played the 2; Declarer the king; and Mr. Whitehead the 5.
Declarer led the 4 of diamonds; "North" played the 8 spot; Dummy the jack since Mr. Lenz knew Mr. Work was out. Mr. Whitehead threw off the 5 of spades.
Dummy led the ace of diamonds; "South" played the 10 of spades; Declarer threw off his 6 of spades; and "North" played the 9 of diamonds.
Dummy led the 6 of diamonds. Mr. Work discarded the 10 of clubs. Declarer trumped with the 4 of hearts; "North" played the 10 of diamonds.
Mr. Lenz now determined to "squeeze" his adversaries. If he could force them to make the wrong discards he could make a Grand Slam.
He led the jack of hearts. Mr. Whitehead discarded the 3 of clubs. Dummy the 5 of clubs; Mr. Work the queen of clubs.
Mr. Lenz led his 5 of hearts; "North" played the 4 of spades; Dummy the jack of clubs; "South" the jack of spades.
Declarer then led his 10 of hearts, and opponents felt the squeeze. Mr. Whitehead, in order to retain his high diamond over Dummy's 7, was forced to play the 8 of spades. Dummy thereupon played his 7 of diamonds. Had Mr. Whitehead played his king, Dummy would have discarded the 10 of spades.
Mr. Work was properly squeezed. If he played his club, Declarer's 8 spot of clubs and Dummy's ace of spades would be good. The discard of the queen of spades, which he had since he had to play something, made both of Dummy's spades good.
Mr. Lenz, therefore, made a Grand Slam in hearts, scoring 54 for tricks, 50 for four honors in one hand and fifth in partner's 100 for Grand Slam, and game.

What Causes Stomach Gas?
WATCH the bubbles coming to the top of the water along the edges of a pond. They're caused by gas given off by decaying matter at the bottom of the pond. In much the same way, waste food matter in the intestines ferments and gives off gas, causing bloating and indigestion.
Adlerika is not a cure-all. In cases of gastric ulcers or deep-seated organic trouble, a good physician should be consulted. But if your trouble is due to Intestinal Stasis (as many stomach and bowel disorders are), Adlerika gives surprisingly quick relief. Even if your bowels move daily, you'll be surprised at the amount of additional matter Adlerika often brings out—and how much better you'll feel after taking it. Sold by 39,000 druggists.
"I have found Adlerika to be far superior in bowel and stomach trouble. It is the best in my entire 37 years experience."—Dr. G. Eggers.

his club suit was two cards longer. Mr. Lenz bid two hearts. He did not try to make a pre-emptive bid, even with his unusual heart strength, because he knew that a pre-emptive bid after an adverse bid is of little value.
Mr. Whitehead passed. Although he had four of his partner's spades and a singleton he did not have sufficient strength for an assist.
Mr. Shepard also passed. His own strong holding made game seem certain in hearts. By passing he signified approval of his partner's bid.
Mr. Work then showed his long strong club suit by bidding three clubs. This bid gave Mr. Whitehead the chance to choose between clubs and spades for the best bid of the partner's combined hands—pretty team work that makes for maximum scores.
Mr. Lenz bid three hearts. This told his partner that his original heart bid was not his own defensive measure, and that his strength justified a re-bid.
Mr. Whitehead said three spades. His four spades and singleton club justified a raise for a partner who had bid such a suit.
Mr. Shepard bid four hearts. He had much more strength than actually necessary to raise a partner who had bid up to three unassisted.
Mr. Work went to four spades. The character of his own hand and of his partner's raise made him confident he would lose only one trick, "one diamond, and one club trick."
Mr. Lenz and Mr. Whitehead passed. Mr. Shepard bid five hearts. He felt there was a sure game in hearts for him and his partner, and comparatively little to be gained by doubling spades.
Mr. Work bid five spades. He expected to lose a trick, but thought this loss while it would avert a game in hearts for the opponents.
Mr. Lenz, partly as a defensive measure, went to six hearts, which held the bid. Mr. Work felt that a bid of six spades or a double of the hearts entailed the possibility of two great losses. It could not be the lowest of four clubs, since Mr. Work's bidding marked him with at least five clubs, and there were five between Mr. Lenz and Mr. Shepard. Figuring the deuce as a singleton placed Mr. Work with seven.
Mr. Lenz figuring Mr. Work with these seven clubs and at least the five spades which his spade bid indicated, saw that Mr. Work had only one card in the red suits and perhaps a trick in the black suits. This placing of the cards made Mr. Lenz sure that he could discard a losing spade or club on one of Dummy's diamonds.
Therefore he played the ace of clubs from Dummy on the first trick; Mr. Work played the 2; Declarer the 6.
Dummy led the 6 of hearts; Mr. Work threw off the 4 of clubs; Declarer played his ace; and "North" the 3 of hearts.
Mr. Lenz next led his heart queen; "North" played the 2 spot. Dummy the 7; "South" discarded the 7 of clubs.
Declarer led the 2 of heart. Mr. Whitehead played the 9. Dummy won with the king and "South" discarded the 2 of clubs.
The opponents' trumps were all out. So Dummy led the 3 of diamonds. Mr. Work played the 2; Declarer the king; and Mr. Whitehead the 5.
Declarer led the 4 of diamonds; "North" played the 8 spot; Dummy the jack since Mr. Lenz knew Mr. Work was out. Mr. Whitehead threw off the 5 of spades.
Dummy led the ace of diamonds; "South" played the 10 of spades; Declarer threw off his 6 of spades; and "North" played the 9 of diamonds.
Dummy led the 6 of diamonds. Mr. Work discarded the 10 of clubs. Declarer trumped with the 4 of hearts; "North" played the 10 of diamonds.
Mr. Lenz now determined to "squeeze" his adversaries. If he could force them to make the wrong discards he could make a Grand Slam.
He led the jack of hearts. Mr. Whitehead discarded the 3 of clubs. Dummy the 5 of clubs; Mr. Work the queen of clubs.
Mr. Lenz led his 5 of hearts; "North" played the 4 of spades; Dummy the jack of clubs; "South" the jack of spades.
Declarer then led his 10 of hearts, and opponents felt the squeeze. Mr. Whitehead, in order to retain his high diamond over Dummy's 7, was forced to play the 8 of spades. Dummy thereupon played his 7 of diamonds. Had Mr. Whitehead played his king, Dummy would have discarded the 10 of spades.
Mr. Work was properly squeezed. If he played his club, Declarer's 8 spot of clubs and Dummy's ace of spades would be good. The discard of the queen of spades, which he had since he had to play something, made both of Dummy's spades good.
Mr. Lenz, therefore, made a Grand Slam in hearts, scoring 54 for tricks, 50 for four honors in one hand and fifth in partner's 100 for Grand Slam, and game.

200,000 CHEER SECOND WEDDING OF BELGIAN PRINCE

Leopold and Astrid, Married Thursday by Civil Rite, Go Through Religious Service in Brussels.

By the Associated Press. BRUSSELS, Nov. 10.—Crown Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid of Sweden, whose civil wedding took place in the Swedish royal palace at Stockholm last Thursday, were married by religious rites in St. Gudule Cathedral at 11:15 o'clock this morning.

The crush around the Cathedral was so great that many women and children were injured. No fatalities were reported, but scores were taken to a hospital or treated for their injuries in nearby drug stores.

It was the greatest demonstration to occur in Brussels since the signing of the armistice. The 25-year-old bridegroom, who walked rather awkwardly up the main aisle of the cathedral with the natural grace of events one day ruler over Belgium, and the bride will be the queen.

200,000 Crowd Streets. But today, to the 200,000 persons lining the magnificent streets and avenues of Brussels, they were simply Leopold and Astrid. The cortege of Kings, royal Princes and nobles passed almost unnoticed, so eager were the throngs to see the youthful couple.

Leopold and Astrid started from the right wing of the royal palace, which henceforth will be their home, shortly before 11 o'clock. "There she comes," cried some of the spectators, and a shout arose which nearly drowned the roar of the cannon firing a 21-gun salute. Arriving at the Cathedral, Astrid showed the strain of the moment in her pale, set visage. The couple were received by high church dignitaries, headed by Archbishop Van Roey of Malines.

When the Archbishop asked: "Do you take Leopold of Brabant for your husband?" Astrid's voice rang clear and sharp. Leopold responded in a throatier and huskier fashion. The ceremony lasted barely 40 minutes.

100,000 Greet Princess. In the medieval setting of Brussels' most beautiful and historic grand palace, the Belgian capital officially received Princess Astrid yesterday. Fully 100,000 persons turned out to greet the "Little Lady of the Snows." Leopold, in the uniform of a Lieutenant of Grenadiers, appeared striving to keep his happiness from a too-exuberant display, but when 300 brass instruments in various military bands began to play, he stood at attention and his eyes were visibly moist.

The Princess wore a pink dress, trimmed with gray fur, and a simple great coat adorned with otter. Her little hat set off her youthful bright features, and she had the appearance of a school girl.

Two Kings, two queens, four Princesses and as many Princes formed the entourage which left King Albert's palace for the official reception.

More than 300 school children danced to lively tunes which were followed immediately by the dreamy and sad strains of Flemish national songs.

Signs the "Golden Book." Astrid's hands trembled slightly as she signed the "Golden Book" in the City Hall, where many of the great men and women of the past 500 years have affixed their signatures. The Princess never seemed to tire of acknowledging the enthusiastic demonstrations from the populace which filled every nook and corner surrounding the various buildings which she visited.

The magnificence, however, appeared to bore Leopold somewhat as the time dragged and he nodded his head with perceptible approval when the composite hands struck up the tune "Where Can One Be Better Than in the Bosom of His Family?"

TWO MEN HURT WHEN AUTOS STRIKE GROUP OF OTHERS

Two men were seriously injured last night when an automobile ran into a group which was trying to separate two automobiles which had collided on Carson road, north of St. Charles Rock road, in St. Louis County.

Frank McConnell, 6411 Bartmer avenue, driver of one of the damaged cars, suffered fractures of skull and ribs and internal injuries. Walter Maury, of Overland Park, a passenger, in the other car, suffered skull fracture and internal injuries.

They were struck by a machine driven by Francis Mills of St. John's Station, who was arrested. He said he did not see the group.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted report of the stock market today, says:

"Strongly contrasted with news developments yesterday the stock market today was treated to what might be regarded as a series of disappointments. These were of minor importance as market factors, however, and as a consequence prices remained relatively firm. Steel lost ground following the publication of its unfilled tonnage statement, as also did Rock Island when directors adjourned their meeting without taking any action on dividends. In the late afternoon values drifted lower, and trading became less active. Bonds continued active on the strength of easier money and moved generally higher. Local traction were am for the features. Higher yielding railroad obligations were also in demand. Foreign issues held relatively steady. The call money rate continued to be officially quoted at 4 percent but it was said that a good supply of funds was available on the cash side at as low as 4 percent. The demand for accommodations was small."

Rock Island Disappointment.

"Disappointment was professed in some quarters over the failure of the Chicago & Rock Island board to take action on dividends at today's meeting and the price of the stock dropped about 3 points. This was wholly unaccounted for, however, as the dividend action had not been scheduled for consideration until early next month. In the former year it had been the custom of directors to decide dividend policies at November meeting but last year a change in meeting dates was made. Revival of the question of railroad mergers in the Northwestern region helped stocks operating in that district somewhat. The prediction that Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Burlington would eventually join hands in a corporate marriage, however, was regarded in the best informed quarters as rather an old story. It has been a well known fact in Wall street for some time that under the general consolidation scheme an effort would be made to bring these three properties together."

"As is usually the case, the unfilled tonnage statement of the United States Steel Corporation was the subject of considerable comment in stock market circles. The announcement had been awaited for some time and all sorts of bullish predictions had been made. When the figures around 90,152 tons, there was a disposition on the part of many to regard them as a bearish argument and they immediately began to sell stock. Those who have made a close study of the premier corporation, market wise, profess to have been persistent accumulation of the stock in recent weeks and are of the opinion that this was not based entirely on the expectations of anything unusual in the way of business. Industries today were that traders are becoming more and more selective in their purchases of stocks."

Exchange Market Dull.

"Trading in foreign exchanges was dull and quotations showed a tendency to drift to lower levels. Sterling lost a small fraction of its value, reaching a new low for the movement. French francs rallied sharply, but lost a large part of the gain. While the dollar was slightly weaker, South American and Far Eastern rates were slightly easier."

Wheat Prices Sag.

"The line of least resistance was toward lower levels in the principal commodity markets. Cotton was rather easily absorbed but the market was sufficient selling pressure from Southern sources to keep the under tone soft and values were moderately lower at the end of the session. Drying was discouraging in wheat as a result of sagging tendencies in foreign markets in response to reports of crop improvement in Argentina. Corn again showed a tendency to rally, but an advance of about 1/8 cent was about lost before the close."

Makes Hair Behave But Doesn't Show!

There's a way to keep your hair just-so, without any of that objectionable, "plastered-down" look. Just use a few drops of Danderine—comb it through hair, or use a Danderine-dampened towel—you'll be amazed at the way your hair then behaves, and its beautiful luster! Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave. Of course, you know what Danderine does to dandruff. Dissolves every bit of it. Puts scalp in the pink of condition. Invigorates hair and hair roots. Why use anything else?

MISSOURI DRY ZONE LOSES ILLINOIS AREA

Jurisdiction Over 28 Counties Transferred to Headquarters at Chicago.

St. Clair and 27 other Southern Illinois counties have been removed from the Missouri-Kansas prohibition enforcement district, with headquarters in St. Louis, and placed in the Illinois-Indiana-Wisconsin district, with headquarters at Chicago, by order of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews. Thus Andrews decided claims for additional territory made by Administrator Alroy S. Phillips of St. Louis and Administrator E. C. Yellowley of Chicago.

Phillips asked that Madison County, headquarters for moonshiners, who infest the East Side, St. Louis and St. Louis County, be added to St. Clair and the other 27 Illinois counties under his control so he could strike at the heart of the moonshining industry in this vicinity.

A counter claim was put in by Yellowley, who contended all Illinois counties should be in one district. He not only asked that Madison County be left with him, but that St. Clair and the other 27 counties be added. Yellowley was supported by United States District Attorney Baker of East St. Louis, who said prohibition agents, operating out of St. Louis, would find it difficult to be in Missouri and Illinois courts on the same day. In the event their cases should be docketed that way, Baker declared Illinois liquor cases should be handled by agents working and living in Illinois.

SMOTHERED IN RICHES, POOR OLD SOUL!

Furs and Jewels, Palaces and Servants, Yet the Woman Wanders Around the World Immersed in Trivialities.

By WINIFRED BLACK

THERE she sat in the corner of the lounge on a big Atlantic liner, the chubby little woman with the face that once had been beautiful.

The hair had once been golden—it is rather brassy now—and the little feet were crowded into slippers a size too small, and the hands covered with diamonds and emeralds and rubies.

Always alone—except when her comfortable-looking husband was with her.

Entirely alone—and she seemed to know quite a number of people, too. Perhaps she was tired and did not want to be bothered. Perhaps she was very exclusive and only wanted to know certain kinds of people.

But no—she was really rather a chatty little person—but nobody gave her the chance apparently.

I wondered why, and then one day I knew. It was windy on deck and I found myself sitting beside the chubby little woman with her face that had once been beautiful and her brassy hair and her feet that were quite too small—oh, quite!

She told me where she lived and what her husband's pet name was and where her son lived and whom he married and what sort of curtains they had in the linen room and what the Country Club said—her son belonged to that—oh, dear, yes, so did his wife.

And the chubby woman has a country house with twenty rooms on the Hudson, and a city apartment with eight rooms, and she has six servants in the country and three in town—not counting the chauffeur. She has three cars and she does not know what she is going to do with all her jewels when she dies. Or the pictures and the statues and the tapestries that she and her husband have brought from all over the world.

And the big house in the country—who will get that when she is gone? She does not like her son's wife, and she does not want her to have any of these things.

She prefers diamonds to pearls. Pearls are all right but they are so easily imitated. She loves the theater and she is crazy about music, oh, just simply crazy, but she has not been very well, so she cannot stand leaving it just now, has not been able to hear it for some years, in fact.

And she has a friend who has married a man younger than herself, and she is always trying to live up to him, and she belongs to six clubs and she always drinks chocolate for breakfast and she hates the food in Europe, and oh—yes, she is very happy with her husband; their friends call them the Cup and Saucer; they never go out without each other, never!

Before she was through talking I could have drawn a plan of her house in the country and her apartment in the city, and I knew just where she bought her gowns, and where she found her nicest hats, and I knew the names of all her servants and which was which; who was cross, who was good-tempered and what she paid them. There she sat in her little corner, poor soul, wrapped up so tight in herself and her furs and her jewels, and her little silly ideas, that she was not out on the great ocean at all.

Poor thing! Rushing around the world for the sake of change and carrying such a burden of self on her shoulders.

I wonder why she does not stay at home and be comfortable.

But now I know why she was always alone, and the ship so full of interesting people. Can't you guess?

Home-Making Helps

By Wanda Barton.

Economy in the Dyepot.

CURTAINS are an ever-present problem, for they must be fresh and suitable at all times. We may not be able to change new ones constantly, but there are many ways of changing old ones for new places. We can cut down, trim to lengthen and widen, and dye materials in the making-over process.

One competent housekeeper says she has stopped running about for colored materials, and just buys a large quantity of white goods and dyes it to match the color schemes needed. She finds the best grade of chamois-cloth a good buy. Some she uses white and trims in colors. She uses applied home of wash silk or cretonne with colors needed and enough black in the pattern to give the needed contrast.

Mulberry and gray are combined very frequently in dining-room decoration calling for the gray walls, white woodwork, dark trim on the woodwork and dark floor. Mulberry curtains and chair coverings the same color are introduced in the glassware and dishes. Leaf green and corn color may add the needed contrasting colors for the chair slips or cushions, or as part of the color scheme of the rug. The theatrical gauze may serve as glass curtains dyed mulberry.

The secret of success in dyeing is to wash the materials first with soapy lukewarm water. When clean, dry or almost dry, plunge into the dyepot. The carefully mixed and prepared dye should be tested with a sample piece of material before putting in the entire piece. Directions about dyeing come with the dye in most cases. Use a small wash boiler that is kept for the purpose, or a large dishpan. Have two smooth sticks to stir the material about with in order to dye all parts alike. After the material is in, bring slowly to boiling point and boil gently for a half hour or so, then turn out the fire and let cool until it is safe to handle. Drain and hang the article to dry; when almost dry rinse and dry, then press. The biggest difficulty for the inexperienced is to get the right shade. This is done by dyeing a series of samples until the right shade is reached. In testing the color on the samples it is a good idea also to look at the colors under electric light as well as in the day.

Marriage

By LUCY LOWELL

HE thought she was just about the nicest girl he ever had seen. So stunning, so up-to-date, so well-dressed, always laughing and passing things off lightly.

Made most of her clothes herself, too! Could take any kind of an old dress and work it over into something that looked like a million dollars.

And how cute she was when she whipped out her vanity case and powdered her little nose, smiling at him gaily over the lid!

The way she ran a lip-stick over her mouth—just enough, you know—so her smile was all color and charm!

Terrific! smitten, he was. He took her everywhere, proud as a Prince when people stared.

He married her.

And in a couple of years he was filing an answer to her suit for divorce.

They couldn't get along, he told the Judge. They quarreled all the time because she used cosmetics. Made up her face in a horrible manner, he said. Why—she'd powder and rouge in public in a most shameless manner!

And the bills he had to pay for her lipsticks and eyebrow pencils and face lotions and such things were something terrible!

Besides, she spent time making over clothes that should have been given to sweeping, dusting, sock-darning, and so on.

And he was a very melancholy figure as he told his story.

I don't know what the Judge did about it.

But, of course, His Honor never had seen the man back in the days before his marriage all aglow with delighted interest when the girl powdered and rouged in public.

He'd never heard him exclaiming with admiration about one of the made-over dresses, telling her how clever she was and encouraging her to keep it up.

The girl pleased him mightily. But the things he had said about the girl didn't appeal to him in his wife. She started in to eliminate them.

It was another of those marriages, you see, where one partner sets out to make over the other.

In cases of this kind, either of two things happen, the one doing the making over succeeds and discovers eventually that the one made over isn't the person he fell in love with, but a weak and unsatisfactory echo of himself and of small consequences as a partner, or he finds that as the girl was bent so the wife will grow, and there'll be no making over.

In either event the marriage is more than likely to be ruined. It would be a very fine thing for young folks—and not so young ones, too—to postpone the journey to the altar long enough to make sure the quality most admired in the intended will be equally admired in wife or husband.

MEDITATIONS
—OF A—MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

MEN are infinitely more curious than women.

Oh, yes, they ARE! If you don't believe it, count the crowd before a display-advertising window some bright afternoon. Whether they are demonstrating a new baby food or gentlemen's patent suspenders, there will be at least 10 men to one woman, watching to "see what's going on."

Woman is perfectly frank in her curiosity, while man camouflages his with that "I'm-only-interested-in-your-welfare" attitude, which every man nobly assumes when he wants to know what's in his wife's letters.

When a woman wants to know what's in the pink accented envelope she finds in her husband's pocket, she deliberately opens it and reads it. But a man sidles casually around back of his wife's chair, and snatches glances at her mother's letters over her shoulder.

As long as her husband gives her all the money she wants, the average wife does not care what he does with the rest of it. But no matter how many millions he may have, the average man wants to know what his wife does with every dollar of her own and every twenty-five-cent-piece he gives her.

A man can never sit all through the processes of a "permanent wave" without trying to find out the scientific reasons for the "performance."

But a woman can go under the surgeon's knife, and never be quite sure what he cut out or where he cut it out, just so the pain stops.

A man is always hunting for a woman's "hidden motives," the "psychology of her acts." Why a woman does things has been the eternal question that has tormented him for ages.

But a woman only wants to know how to MAKE a man do the things she wants him to do, or how to make him stop doing the things he shouldn't do; and she doesn't care why he does them.

No woman ever snoops into a man's office desk, as a man snoops into her kitchen refrigerator. She doesn't want to know how he runs his business—but he is mightily concerned to know how she's running the house.

DOLLY DIALOGUES, 1926

A SATIRE ON THE MODERN GIRL

By ROLLIN KIRBY

Remember the "Dolly Dialogues" made famous by Anthony Hope? Rollin Kirby, editorial cartoonist, has written and illustrated a series of "Dolly Dialogues," 1926 style, that should amuse both those who remember the girls of the nineties and those who think the present era could not be improved on.

NO. 3.

WE THREE, my Aunt Jane, my cousin and I, were sitting on the veranda of the Swashanka Yacht Club. A low person in club uniform had just gone through with the important business of firing the sunset gun and lowering the flag. The different craft were returning from the Sound and, having anchored, were signaling with raucous squawks for the club tender. The Boston boat cut between us and the red sun sinking into a purple haze.

We had been out all day on board Palooka. Billy Langevin's 40-footer, and we were a little slack.

"If ever I put my foot on that old scow again!" said my cousin, between applications of a lipstick, "don't wait till dawn to shoot me."

My aunt turned in surprise.

"I had always thought," she said, "you were fond of sailing."

"Oh, gewalt!" groaned my cousin. "Of all cockeyed ways of bustin' up a perfectly good day, commend me to that form of paralysis."

My aunt tapped the arm of her rocker with her lorgnette. Obviously she was nettled.

"You might do much worse than Billy Langevin," she said.

"THAT goof!" cried my cousin in derision. "That baby has a seat on the Exchange."

My aunt replied, "and that's not to be sneezed at."

"Say, listen, dearie, if that bird had a SOFA on the Exchange he'd still be out. You can count 200 over him—he'll never regain consciousness."

"I knew his father when he was President of the Coaching Club," my aunt said reminiscently. "I recall Mrs. Astor saying to me that Larry Langevin was the most——"

"Help!" cried my cousin, snipping a cigarette butt onto the lawn. "Auntie disappeared into the dim past. Is there no man among you to save her?"

My aunt's composure was a delight to behold. She drew herself up with that rare dignity of hers and turned to me with a smile.

"Some day," she said, "some day, some one is going to swing on my adorable niece; and it will do her worlds of good."

"The deplorable thing in all this is that, while the prospect for food is excellent, there seems to be very slender chance for a drink."

said I, deftly turning the conversation.

"Do you mean to say that that flask is entirely empty?" my aunt gasped.

"Madam, to the last drop. Little Bright-Eyes here polished off the last of it when we were in Cold Spring Harbor."

"I had to do something to keep alive," and the culprit regarded her make-up in her mirror. "That hopeless washout, Langevin, had nothing on board, of course."

"This," said my aunt, "is serious. It requires thought."

A tall, bronzed man in flannels came out of the clubhouse door and, spying our little group came over to us. It was Langevin.

"I've been ordering dinner," he said. "I hope I've not kept you waiting."

"Good egg," I cried. "I could do with a mess of food."

"I was reading the other day," said my aunt, looking out over the harbor with far-away eyes, "that alcohol has certain food values. I wonder if that can be true?"

Langevin's face broke into a grin. "Girls," he said, "and boys, hold yourselves well in hand."

"Cocktails," he said, "and (no cheering now) Pol Roget, 1915!"

My cousin flung herself on him.

"Billy!" she cried. "My hero!"

Children May Have Candy.

DO your children "just love" candy? You think it is harmful? Not a bit—provided they get simple, pure candies in moderate quantities, and only at the end of dinner.

To insure good, pure candy for your family you "make" your own. Recipes are easy to get and just as easy to work out. Try it.

You could become an expert at it if you took a few lessons in the art. This knowledge may solve the problem of Christmas gifts, too, for that is always an acceptable present and when home-made it is ever so much more so.

At any rate, it is worth while learning candy-making, even just for the children, because it is so much better for them.

Reaching Normal Weight

By Lucrezia Bori

MANY women think of exercise in terms of so many lost pounds instead of viewing it as a normalizing medium. It is possible to actually trim down the size of the figure and yet have the scales register the same amount of pounds as they did before the exercises were begun.

This tendency toward normalizing what makes it possible for one woman who is overweight to reduce by the same exercises that her underweight friend uses to build up her body.

Exercise, as a rule, does not reduce weight, but does reduce size by turning flabby soft muscles into trim, hard muscles.

If one is underweight, proper exercise will increase the weight, not by adding fat, but by strengthening the constitution, giving a better appetite and developing the muscles; in other words, by normalizing the body.

As an illustration of this normalizing I will give you an exercise that will reduce the size of the waistline as far as measurement is concerned, but will not make the scales register one pound less.
